—By Arthur Brisbane—

A HINDU WOMAN, going back to ancient custom and superstition, insisted on performing the ancient rite of "Suttee," which meant burning alive on the fire that burned her husband's body.

While frantic fanatics held back British police, the woman threw herself on the fire and lay burning beside her dead husband, while the crowd yelled its delight. In her agony she rolled from the funeral pyre, holding in her arms the husband's body, which rolled into the river.

Rescued by police, she would not return to her home for two days, but remained in agony on the spot where her husband's body disappeared. Then more police took her by force. Horribly burned, and neglected afterward, she will probably die.

For an admirable, truthful account of horrible conditions still existing in India, forced marriage of little girls nine years old to middle-aged men, and other atrocities, read "Mother India," written by an American woman.

Read also Voltaire's "Zadig," which will delight you. It tells how a wandering philosopher cured the "Suttee" habit in one part of India. He told the people he admired "Suttee," but suggested one amendment.

Before being burned, the widow must spend two hours with the handsomest young man in the village. They tried that, and when the fire was ready, the widow was not. She had vanished, and the handsomest young man with her. The crowd missed that "Suttee."

You may not like to see that Union Jack covering so much of the earth's territory. But the widows and the little girls of India may be glad the flag floats over them—also the miserable cattle allowed to starve to death, because brutalized Hindus think it a sin to put them out of their misery—also millions of "untouchables," human beings kept in horrid misery by India's caste system.

John Bull does what he can to help them all, and actually orders his police to shoot starving, dying cattle—while the Hindu mob yells its superstitious fears.

But John Bull will have to answer for one thing at the judgment day. Protecting Hindus from Mohammedans that would gladly massacre them, curbing

REBELS GOT HELP FROM CALLES

(Copyright, 1927, by Washington Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 29.—Dr. Alejandro Cesar, Nicaraguan Minister to the United States, read the secret treaty which Mexico made with the Sacasa rebel government as published in the Hearst newspapers and declared it to be authentic.

Immediately after publication of its text in the Washington Herald, Dr. Cesar went to the State Department and was closeted with Secretary Kellogg for almost an hour.

At the conclusion of the conference, he refused to make any statement except informally and to write a brief note for the Hearst newspapers.

This note, in the Minister's own handwriting, and on the letter head of his legation said:

"Legacion de Nicaragua.

"Nobody can deny the full support given by the government of Mexico to the revolution of Nicaragua headed by Dr. Juan Bautista Sacasa and General Jose Maria Moncada.

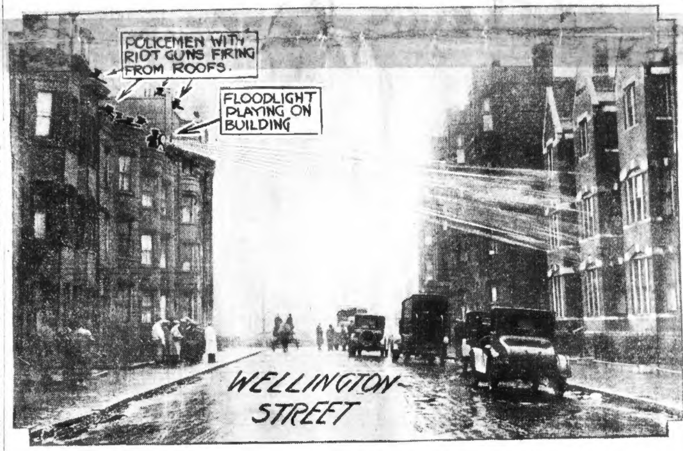
"Battle of Barricades" Rages for Four Hours



POLICEMEN WITH RIOT GUNS FIRING FROM ROOFS.
FLOODLIGHT PLAYING ON BUILDING
WELLINGTON-STREET

FOUR SURRENDER WHEN AGONIZING TEAR GAS BOMBS BURST UPON THEM

With all their modern weapons, machine guns, automatic pistols, powerful floodlights and finally, most effective of all, tear gas bombs, 75 police here beseiged and finally captured two men and two women who had held them at bay for four hours. The two men in the house fought from behind one barricade erected on the second floor. Several police fired from another such protected structure on the first floor. Meantime machine guns, guided by the searchlights, poured in a fusilade from roofs of houses across the street, smashing the windows through which the gas bombs were hurled, and the fumes from these, coupled with the fact that the gunmen inside had run out of ammunition, caused the collapse of the fight.

POLICE GAS BOMBERS MAKE FOUR SURRENDER IN SOUTH END BATTLE

A four-hour gun battle with two men and two women, barricaded in a South End house, against 75 policemen armed with every type of department weapon, ended before dawn today with the capitulation of the besieged.

More than 300 shots were fired by both sides before the surrender of the four. Pistols, riot guns, shotguns and tear-gas bombs were employed by the police.

The staccato roar of the guns through the South End streets threw that part of the city into an uproar and attracted a crowd of more than 500, who gathered well out of gun-range from the house.

As a result of the battle two men are in City Hospital: Patrolman John V. Miller of Station 5, overcome by tear-gas bombs, and George Brooks, a lodger in the house at No. 21 Wellington street, where the battle occurred. Brooks has a gunshot wound in the back of his neck.

WELLESLEY CALLS FIRE AID; HOTEL GUESTS FLEE

More than a score of guests of the Waban Hotel were driven out and the business section of Wellesley was threatened today when fire swept the Wellesley Square Garage on Cameron street and destroyed 12 automobiles. A general alarm brought help from Natick, Needham and Weston.

The first alarm coming from the exclusive Dana Hall School for Girls aroused the fear that the school buildings were ablaze and scores of Wellesley residents joined the fire department in the rush to the blaze.

75 POLICE WIN BATTLE AGAINST 4 IN SOUTH END BARRICADE

RIOT SQUAD USES GAS BOMBS

Brooks, together with Robert Polite, 34, owner of the house, and the two women are under arrest. The women identified themselves as Mrs. Sadie Polite, wife of the owner, and Lillian J. Coyne, alias Richards, 34, of Longwood avenue, Roxbury.

Police of three stations, 5, 10 and 16, and Capt. W. W. Livingston's special squad participated in the fray. Arrayed against them, according to the police charges, were Polite and Brooks, armed with guns which have not yet been found, and the two women, whose exact part in the disturbance has not yet been determined.

In addition to the hospital casualties, Mrs. Polite is suffering from lacerations on her head, received, she told authorities, when she refused to make a dash for more ammunition for her husband and he struck her with a revolver.

START OF TROUBLE.

Patrolman John W. Gorham had been sent to the Wellington street house by Station 5 after it had received a report of shots being fired there. As Gorham ascended the steps, he says, a window on the second floor was raised and a man leaned out.

"Any trouble here?" Gorham inquired.

"No trouble," came the reply. "Go and mind your own business."

"Has there been any shooting here?"

"No, there has been no shooting here. I'm going to bed."

"I'm coming in to investigate," returned Gorham.

"Let's see you try it," came the answer from above.

The head of the man withdrew. Patrolman Gorham tried to get in the door, but found it locked.

Four hours later Gorham and nearly fourscore others were still trying it.

Gorham had telephoned for reserves, which already were on the way. Patrolmen Frank Welch and John Dunn arrived in the patrol, and a minute later came Sergeant Arthur D. Timmons with a riot squad, including William J. O'Connor, William Murphy, John V. Miller, Charles Kresson and Francis P. McGuire.

SMASHES IN DOOR.

Sergeant Timmons rang the bell several times and finally the window above the stairs was again opened and Polite asked what was wanted. Timmons answered that the police intended coming in to investigate the shooting.

"Try and get in—your whole department," Polite answered.

More reinforcement with special weapons arrived and the siege began. Police ranged themselves at points of vantage on adjoining rooftops and across the street. Flood lights played upon the house.

Armed with a sledge hammer Patrolman William Braunels dashed up the front steps and crashed in the door with one blow. As he did so pistols barked from the first-flight stairs inside the house and a hail of bullets swept out through the doorway. One went through Sergeant Timmons' hat.

With a picked squad of ten men, Timmons dashed into the house, the fire from their guns raking the stairway, and under the assault Polite and Brooks, who had been standing there, dashed to the second floor. Then at the foot of the stairs the police squad barricaded themselves against the shots whistling down from above.

Meantime the squads on adjoining roofs got into action and with their riot guns broke every window in the house so that tear bombs could be tossed to the interior.

Patrolman William Garnett, one of the department's crack shots, was the first man armed with a riot gun. From a rooftop across the street, Garnett broke every window in the front of the barricaded house.

Patrolman Miller, accompanied by Gorham and Robert Lucy reached the roof of the Polite house, three stories from the ground. They opened a skylight and called down for those within to surrender.

DROP GAS BOMBS.

The answer was a fusillade of bullets that just missed Miller.

"Come in and get me," a voice called. "You're not big enough."

Polite's wife attempted to gain the skylight and the patrolman heard a man threaten to kill her if she ventured near. The three officers dropped tear-bombs down into the house and the quick rush of gas up the skylight caused Miller to be overcome.

Gorham and Lucy dragged their fellow officer across to a fire escape on the building at No. 23 Wellington street, and while they did so, Polite thrust his gun through the skylight and fired on them several times.

Patrolman Lawrence O'Connor of Livingston's squadron, volunteered to climb through a second story window. He did so, and five shots spattered about him as he hastily withdrew.

Three hours after the battle began, Mrs. Polite slid down the stairway bannister into Sergeant Timmons' arms with a hail of bullets fired from her husband's gun whistling about her.

PLAN MASS ATTACK.

Shortly after her surrender, Timmons secreted his squad to command the stairs and withdrew to confer with Capt. Livingston on a plan for storming the house.

Just as plans were being made to cut off all the lights in the neighborhood, both gas and electric, to afford the officers the protection of darkness in their concerted move, officers on adjoining roofs heard Polite crying that he had had enough and would surrender.

Fearing a ruse, Captain Livingston asked for volunteers to ascend the stairs. A dozen men stepped forward. Sergeant Timmons and Patrolmen Lawrence J. O'Connor and Francis P. McGuire started up the stairs and as they did so Polite started down to meet them.

He held his hands high over his head and a broad grin lit up his face. At times he laughed aloud.

Two minutes after he was seized, Timmons, William O'Connor and Patrolman Ryder pulled Brooks out of a closet on the third floor. He was taken to the station and then to the hospital. His wound is not considered serious.

The Coyne woman also was found hiding in a closet. She told police she had been asleep when awakened by the battle.

WOMAN WOUNDED.

Mrs. Polite received treatment for her head wounds at the hospital and was then locked up. She told police she had tried to induce her husband to give up. Polite, according to the police, did most of the shooting within the house and it is possible, they pointed out, that he wounded Brooks, as there was a gun battle inside before the police arrived.

Police said a third man was originally in the house. They identified him as Robert Vavien, living in Northampton street. The fracas started, according to the authorities, during a dice game, when Vavien objected to certain actions of Brooks.

Victim of Gas Bomb ∾ And Scene of Siege ∾ Where Police Capture Four

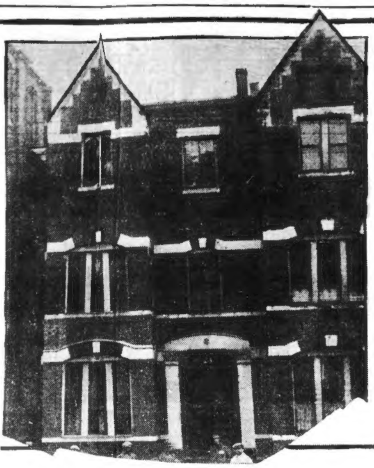
PATROLMAN JOHN V. MILLER

In bed at City Hospital recovering from effects of tear gas used to rout quartet beseiged at No. 21 Wellington street. Miller and other officers tossed a gas bomb into the house through a skylight on the roof. The fumes poured out upon them accompanied by a fusillade of bullets. Miller was overcome by the gas and was dragged by his companions to an adjoining roof.



NO. 21 WELLINGTON STREET

Where the "battle of the barricades" occurred lasting four hours, participated in by 75 police armed with all their modern weapons, machine guns, automatic pistols, gas bombs and flood lights. The battle raged until the besieged quartet, whose two men had run out of ammunition, surrendered. One of the men was wounded. One of the two women was found hiding in a closet.

BULLET-RIDDLED PREMISES

Patrolman Michael A. Fitzgerald, one of the nearly three score officers who took part in the battle, shows some of the damage done as the staccato of the machine guns aroused the neighborhood, while Robert Polite, 34, owner of the house, his wife, Sadie, George Brooks, a lodger, and Lillian J. Coyne "held the fort."

SECRET TREATY IS CONFIRMED

Dr. Cesar then said informally:

"I have seen the original draft of the treaty and it is real. Every possible effort is being made to prevent the United States from building the Nicaraguan Canal and at the same time destroy the friendship between your government and ours. It simply can't be done."

These statements were issued regarding the article published Monday morning by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers revealing the text of a secret treaty between Dr. Sacasa and the government of Mexico.

This treaty provided for the moral, financial and physical support to the Sacasa revolution by President Calles and the Mexican government. In return, Sacasa promised that on getting control of the Nicaraguan government he would abrogate treaties providing for an American canal and an American naval base.

Further disclosures by the American and associated Hearst newspapers will be published tomorrow. This article will be of an extremely sensational nature, revealing the draft of a secret treaty between Mexico and a world power.

Reply Is Made to Dr. Gruening Statement

The Boston Evening American on Wednesday, November 23, published a facsimile of an original document stating that President Calles of Mexico, on February 3, 1926, had ordered $10,000 paid to Dr. Ernest Gruening, "for expenses on a voyage for the discharge of a mission confided to him by the executive, the purpose of which is to study in London the situation of the striking coal miners."

Dr. Gruening has stated that he would seek legal redress against the American for the publication of this document, which he charged was a forgery.

The American will not avoid any suit dependent upon the authenticity of these documents.

ASSAIL WIDOW'S DEATH STORY

sat on the carpeted floor, jingling pennies in his hand and playing with the stub of a pencil.

The jury came in at 9:25. Counsel for all sides followed, and with them came Henry T. Lilliendahl, New York lawyer and brother of the slain doctor. He brought his little nephew a box of crayons, with which the boy began to draw pictures, kneeling on the carpet and laying his paper on his chair.

DOESN'T NOTICE MOTHER.

Beach entered jauntily at 9:30 followed by Mrs. Lilliendahl, who was smiling broadly from between the parted folds of her widow's veil. Albert was too engrossed in his pictures to notice his mother's arrival.

Justice Campbell entered a few minutes later and court was called to order. Mrs. Stella Carr, employed at State police headquarters in Hammonton, was the day's first witness, the eleventh of the trial.

She identified the torn dress and stockings in which Mrs. Lilliendahl was brought in from the scene of the crime. She said she saw no bruises on the widow.

Under cross examination she said the stockings were more torn now than when she removed them from the widow.

A State trooper who was on the stand yesterday, and who was the first official at the scene of the crime, testified next that he found no bruises on the body of Dr. Lilliendahl.

TROOPERS ARE WITNESSES.

William Lewis, another trooper, told of interviewing Mrs. Lilliendahl the day of the crime. He said the widow first told of being attacked by two negroes with coarse features and later said they wore masks.

He said she told him that each negro had a gun, but that she heard only one shot. Three bullets were found in the doctor's head.

She also told him, the trooper said, that the negroes dragged her from her car into the road and attacked her.

Six witnesses yesterday testified that the sandy road showed no footprints but those of Mrs. Lilliendahl.

Sergeant Howard Carlson of the State police, the next witness, testified to questioning Mrs. Lilliendahl with Trooper Lewis. He also said she was not so excited, but that she answered all questions coherently.

Dr. Edward Burt, Atlantic County coroner, told of being called to the spot off the Atsion road, near Hammonton, where Dr. Lilliendahl was killed.

SHOWED NO EMOTION.

His testimony closely followed that of previous witnesses at the scene of the crime. He added, however, what the State considered important testimony that Dr. Lilliendahl's face was in complete repose.

"There were no indications on that face," he said, "of anger or fear or surprise. The features were perfectly composed."

Under cross-examination, Dr. Burt insisted that a person killed while under great emotion showed that fact in the face after death. The coroner said he saw powder marks on Dr. Lilliendahl's collar.

When Mrs. Lilliendahl identified the body at the morgue two days later, he said, she covered her eyes with her hands and sobbed.

Dr. Lewis Souder, Atlantic County physician who performed the autopsy on Dr. Lilliendahl's body, told in detail, using a diagram to illustrate the position of the three wounds in Dr. Lilliendahl's head.

He then identified the bullets removed in the autopsy.

Dr. Souder also said Dr. Lilliendahl's face showed no sign of emotion and added that in cases of sudden death such emotions do "carry over" on the face.

Lewis said she showed no signs of "extreme distress" and there were no bruises on her that he saw.

Beach was whistling in his cell today as court time approached.

Last night he suffered one of the heart attacks to which he is subject, but after medical attention he recovered.

Both defendants ate a hearty breakfast and expressed satisfaction that the trial was under way. They both expressed confidence that the jury of five women and seven men, headed by a woman foreman, would find them innocent.

Jesse Pomeroy, 68 Today, Has Had 52 Prison Birthdays

Jesse Harding Pomeroy, dean of the 135 "lifers" at the State Prison in Charlestown, today observed his sixty-eighth birthday. He has spent fifty-two birthdays in the State Prison, entering on September 7, 1876, when he was nearly seventeen years of age.

The event in the life of the noted prisoner today passed without a special observance on the part of his friends.

FIRE AROUSES WELLESLEY

The fire, however, had been discovered by a maid employed at the school and she notified the watchman who pulled in the alarm.

The fire was on the opposite side of the street, but the glare awoke the school girls who filled the windows of the dormitory. By the time the Wellesley department arrived the interior of the garage was a mass of flames. Meantime police and others had succeeded in removing a few of the cars stored in the garage.

The garage is in the rear of the Waban Hotel. More than a score of guests were driven out by the smoke that billowed into the hotel. The blaze for a time gave the departments a lively battle but it was confined to the garage building.

The fire is believed to have started in the garage office from a cause so far undetermined and as there was no one in the place at night, worked its way into the main building before being discovered.

The proximity of the barn to the Church of the Assumption, parochial school building and the Baptist Church and other buildings caused a general alarm. Four automobiles and several tons of hay in the barn were destroyed.

WETS SEEK $3,000,000 'WAR FUND'; DRYS $5,000,000

'Ruth Sinned, Let Her Pay' ∾ Say B. U. Girls; One Would Save Her for Daughter's Sake

ONLY ONE WOULD SPARE HER BECAUSE OF LORRAINE
FOUR WOULD SEND MRS. SNYDER TO CHAIR

"SHE'S AS GUILTY AS GRAY"
"Should Ruth Snyder die in the chair?" was asked five B. U. girls by a Boston Evening American reporter. Irene Hagan of Worcester was one of four to answer "Yes, she's as guilty as Gray."

"I WOULD NOT SAVE HER"
Priscilla Keith of Fitchburg declared Mrs. Snyder deserves no mercy. "Justice for the man is justice for the woman," was her logic. If she were Governor, Ruth would die.

"DESERVES TO DIE"
Eleanor Davis of South Portland, Me., declared that the fact Mrs. Snyder has a little daughter should make no difference, for she deserves to die.

"IF I WERE GOVERNOR—"
"The fact she's a woman makes no difference," said Isabell Larson of Hyde Park. "If I were Governor, I would not be influenced to save her."

"FOR CHILD'S SAKE"
"I should not pardon her, but I would commute her sentence for her child's sake, if I were Governor," declared Ruth Thomas of Brookline, when asked what she would do.

REAL FIGHT OPENS ON RUM LAW

Leaders in Congress Doubt Issue Comes to Showdown Before 1932

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 29.—The "wets" have launched a campaign for $3,000,000 with which to promote a national referendum on prohibition within the next few years.

The "drys" are to meet in the capital next week to launch a campaign for $5,000,000 with which to combat the efforts of the wets and keep the eighteenth amendment nailed in the constitution.

Members of Congress, returning to Washington for the session beginning Monday, commented upon these twin developments today by apprehensively shaking their heads.

Many of them believe that the real battle over prohibition is just starting, despite the turmoil and struggle of the last seven years, and that the crux of the fight will be reached in 1932.

KISSLESS BRIDE DIVORCES HER '33-DAY HUBBY'

A 33-day wedded life, turned "companiate" by a mother-in-law; stories of abuse and stormy home life and just plain desertion marked divorce decrees handed down by Judge Joseph R. McCoole in Dedham Court on petitions of disappointed husbands and wives.

Mrs. Gretchen R. Gilbert of Natick bride of little more than a month, told the court that her husband, Earl R. Gilbert, of Wellesley, took her to his mother's home shortly after their wedding, June 27, 1924.

"She gave us separate rooms and forced me to eat in the kitchen while Earl and his mother dined in the dining room," she testified.

"Though he was my husband, he never greeted me with a kiss, but always showed affection for his mother. I pleaded with him to remain at home with me when my father died, but he said he had to go back to his mother. On July 30, 1924, we separated."

Hazel I. Greene of Weymouth was granted a divorce from Clifford L. Greene of Quincy when she told the court a story of more than twenty battles in eight years of married life. She testified to receiving a broken nose and kicks in the side. They were married in Weymouth in 1919. She was given custody of three children and $10 per week.

An equally stormy household was pictured by Mrs. Lillian M. Oickle of Quincy. She was fourteen when she married in the Summer of 1915. A story of jealousy and abuse won her a decree.

WITNESS LINKS DODGE WITH MRS. REMUS

Cincinnati, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The first of the stories that George Remus claims drove him insane was related from the witness stand in his trial for wife murder here today.

It came in by virtue of a ruling of Judge Chester R. Shook that evidences of a diseased mind in Remus having been established by the testimony of lay witnesses, the causes for the insanity might be recited.

For the first time the names of Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., former Department of Justice agent, and the woman Remus shot to death, his estranged second wife, Imogene, were mentioned together from the witness stand.

Three times they were seen together at the Remus home in the absence of Remus, ran the story, and upon two of the occasions Dodge tried to hide his identity.

Twice Dodge was driving expensive automobiles owned by the man he had caused to be sent to the penitentiary for violation of the prohibition law, said the testimony.

MEDFORD MAN DIES IN CRASH

Dayton, O., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Michael Sullivan, forty years old, of 43 Manning street, Medford, Mass., was killed and fifteen other persons were injured, when a Big Four passenger train, the Ohio Special, New York to Cincinnati, and a freight train collided at street crossing today.

The diner and four Pullmans of the passenger train were derailed. The diner and one Pullman upset and the engine and two cars of the freight overturned.

The passenger train, carrying from New York many persons who had attended the Army-Navy football game, was traveling south. The freight was northbound.

The wreck is believed to have occurred when one of the box cars of the freight was derailed and plunged into the side of the Pullman diner.

Sullivan was fifty-two years old, and until last February was for several years a member of the schoolhouse building commission of Medford. His wife collapsed when the news was broken to her. She is under the care of a physician. Sullivan was employed as superintendent of construction for the Lockwood-Greene Company of Boston. He was on his way to Cincinnati today when the crash occurred.

College Girls Believe Ruth Should Die

What does the college girl think of the Snyder case?

Should Ruth Brown Snyder die in the electric chair the week of January 9 as the court has sentenced?

Or should Governor Smith pardon her? Or should he commute her sentence to life imprisonment?

What would YOU do if you were Governor of New York? Five Boston University students, chosen at random, were asked that question. They had very definite answers. Four of them believe she should die. One would commute her sentence to life imprisonment for the sake of her child. Here are the answers:

IRENE HAGAN, of Worcester:— If I were Governor of New York I would not interfere in the Snyder case. Because she is a woman is no reason she should be pardoned or benefit by a commuted sentence. With Gray, she was equally guilty of an atrocious crime, and both should suffer the penalty of the law.

PRISCILLA KEITH of Fitchburg— I would not pardon her nor would I commute her sentence. She committed a crime and if death is the penalty for that crime in New York State, she should die. Justice for the man is justice for the woman.

RUTH THOMAS, of Brookline— I would not pardon Ruth Snyder but if I were Governor of New York I think I should commute her sentence to life imprisonment for the sake of her child, Lorraine.

ELEANOR DAVIS, of South Portland, Me.— Mrs. Snyder would receive no mercy from me. The fact that she has a little girl should make no difference to me if I were Governor. That little girl, in view of all the circumstances, will be better off without her mother. In my opinion, I think Ruth Snyder should die.

ISABELLE LARSON, of Hyde Park —Being Governor of New York would not change my opinion any. I think Mrs. Snyder should die. She committed a premeditated crime in full possession of her faculties. All this talk of equality for the sexes can be applied in this case. She is a woman but that should not in any way influence the Governor's decision.

CATTLE AND PIGS BURNED IN $15,000 MILLBURY FIRE

Millbury, Mass., Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Several head of cattle and a number of pigs were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a barn owned by Cyrus Eaton, with a loss estimated at $15,000.

FINED $85,000 FOR DISTILLING BRANDY

Treves, Prussia, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—A brandy manufacturer named Hubert was fined 350,000 marks (roughly $85,000) or 233 days in prison, today for secretly distilling 40,000 litres of brandy. This is the largest fine ever assessed here for moonshining.

DOHENY TO ASK U. S. TO PAY HIM $1,300,000

San Francisco, Nov. 29 (I.N.S.)—Frank J. Hogan, attorney for Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, today asserted the next session of Congress would be asked to reimburse Doheny and his associates approximately $13,000,000, the actual sum Hogan said, representing physical improvements to Elk Hills and the navy base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

WETS AND DRYS AFTER MONEY

Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment at a private dinner in New York that his organization is launching a national campaign for a referendum, marks the first serious organized effort the wets have ever made to force a showdown on prohibition.

They do not want it now, nor in next year's national elections. They are not ready.

The wets have their eyes on 1932, and they believe that, with four years to prepare the ground, they will be able in the national elections of that year to go to the mat with the drys.

The wets have been heartened by the succession of small defeats suffered by the drys in recent tests. The election of wet Congressmen in various districts heretofore considered dry, the drubbing given the Anti-Saloon League in Ohio a few weeks ago, the open opposition to the Volstead law shown in great cities and the inability of the government to enforce the law in these wet places, after seven years, have all combined to hearten the wets for the effort.

WILL LAY WAR PLANS.

The war plans of the drys will be formulated here next week at a gathering that will bring together most of the reform elements of the country, the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. U., the World League Against Alcoholism and various temperance and church organizations.

One of the principal jobs of this gathering is to select a successor to the late Wayne B. Wheeler, the dynamic little attorney who for many years was the national prohibition spokesman.

BOY, 8, SENT TO STORE, FINDS DEATH ON THE WAY

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Sent to a nearby store by his mother, who was seriously ill with pneumonia, George Blaker, Jr., eight, was hit by an automobile driven by Fred L. Smith of Rutland and rushed to the DeGoesbriand Hospital, where he died of a fractured skull.

SAW DODGE AT REMUS HOME

torney, asked of William Mueller, the day's opening witness.

"Yes, sir, I did," responded Mueller.

Mueller, for the last eight years caretaker at the Remus mansion here, was making his fourth appearance in the witness box.

"When?" Elston asked.

August 1, 1926, a Sunday," Mueller started off.

OTHERS IN HOUSE.

"I came up and Dodge was there in Mr. Remus' auto. He ran around the car and leaned over like this": Mueller folded his arms on the witness box railing and concealed his face.

"A Mrs. Smith of Columbus and her son were there," said Mueller.

"What did you do?"

"I just took a good look."

Mueller admitted that upon that occasion he had seen Mrs. Remus two and one-half hours later.

"Any other occasion?" demanded Elston.

"Yes. I saw Dodge from the outside of the house and he drew the shade down before my face."

"Who else was there?"

"Mrs. Remus."

"When was the next time?"

"In the latter part of December, 1926. They had two cars there ready to drive away."

Prosecutor Taft objected, contending that this witness and all others should be restricted to statements they had communicated to Remus.

"Only those stories told Remus himself posibly could have afftected Remus' mind," said Taft.

Judge Shock's ruling was: "Facts, whether proved true or false, if brought to the defendant's knowledge previously to October 6, are competent testimony, but the facts must have been communicated. It is the burden of the State to prove murder, and the burden of the defence to prove insanity."

Pays Social Call on Police; Finds Self Landed in Cell

Eugene Otholo, 11, of Broadway, Revere, "stepped out of bounds," when he called at Revere police station today to receive congratulations for having "kissed and made up" with his wife, following issuance of an assault and battery warrant in Chelsea court last week.

Mrs. Otholo made up, it was true, but neglected to cancel the warrant.

Otholo, face wreathed in smiles, paid a social call on Desk Sergeant Cornelius Cronin. The minion of the law was affable, but the law itself was firm. Eugene was served the warrant and placed in a cell until court opened.

When he was arraigned the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

GUARD FELLED IN HOLDUP

Refusing to obey the order of a holdup man to keep quiet and "hand over the money," Everett Pratt, 30, night watchman in the garage at No. 1299 Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, took a swing with his fist at the robber today. He was not quick enough and as a result received a blow over the head with a steel bar that felled him.

The robber appeared to lose his nerve, for instead of going through Pratt's pockets or going to the garage office he ran to the street and disappeared. Pratt called the police by telephone and was taken to the City Hospital, where a deep gash in his head was treated.

Although the police scoured the vicinity for the robber they could not find him, as he had hidden his features with a white handkerchief and Pratt was unable to get a good description.

VOLCANO IN CHILE IN VIOLENT ERUPTION

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—The Llaima volcano, in the province of Cautin, Southern Chile, went into full eruption last night and has been vomiting ashes and lava since, according to dispatches from Temucom.

Flames from the volcano are rising high in the sky and can be seen for great distances. Residents of the region are greatly alarmed.

HELD UP BY GUNMAN, LOSES WATCH AND $25

Held up at the point of a gun at Myrtle and Revere streets, West End, today, William North, of No. 105 Charles street, was robbed of a gold watch and chain and $25 in money, he told the police.

North said he was on his way home when a man between 25 and 30 years of age stepped out of a doorway and, thrusting a revolver at him, demanded his money and valuables. He described the highwayman as being about 5 feet 8 inches tall, 150 pounds in weight, light complexion, smooth face, wearing a brown overcoat and light gray hat.

WOMAN BEATEN IN FURIOUS FIGHT WITH INTRUDER

Screaming for help, Mrs. Mollie Provisio, 35, of Beacon street, Chelsea, today staggered out of her doorway, telling of an intruder she met in the hall on her return from shopping.

The woman was bruised and scratched, giving evidence of the battle waged. She fell down a flight of stairs before the man made his escape. Though no bones were broken, she was on the verge of hysterics.

She described the man as a negro, nearly six feet tall, weight 176 pounds and said he wore a cap and dark suit.

FAIR AND WARMER, BUT MORE RAIN ON THE WAY

A warm wave with rain in its wake was billowing eastward over the entire country early today from Colorado and is officially predicted to arrive hereabouts within the next 24 hours.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair and slightly warmer tonight; Wednesday increasing cloudiness followed by rain in afternoon or night; moderate southerly winds.

BABY'S SOBS LEAD WOMAN TO FIND 2 CORPSES

Canton, O., Nov. 29 (I.N.S.)—Attracted by the sobbing of Annette Mann, 3, Mrs. Anna Bontz, a neighbor, discovered the little girl half starved and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mann, dead on the floor of a bedroom at the Mann home here.

The tragedy, which was pronounced by Coroner T. C. McQuate as a case of murder and suicide, occurred Saturday.

For there's nothing we read of torture's inventions,

1 MILLION FUND FOR VERMONT GUARANTEED

Formation of a million-dollar corporation to handle a guaranty fund for loans to Vermont flood sufferers was announced today by the New England Council.

The organization is to be known as the Vermont Flood Credit Corporation and will be directed by representatives from the six New England States.

The personnel of the directorate while not fully decided upon, is to contain the names of some of New England's largest banking interests a majority drawn from the State of Vermont.

"Good-will" stock, a guarantee of New England representative banks will be sold as soon as the charter is granted by the Vermont Legislature in session tomorrow.

FIVE-YEAR LOANS.

With the guaranty fund behind them, Vermont banks will be in a position to loan on a five-year basis to farmers' business men and other legitimate agencies in the flood area. The interest rate was announced as 4½ per cent.

At least $250,000 worth of stock is to be sold in Vermont, safeguarding other New England banks from injudicious loans and risk of loss. Another protective measure was incorporated in the plans with the ruling that half of any losses is to be assumed by Vermont banks and half by the remaining members in the five States.

Sue to stringent Vermont laws in regard to stocks and loans, a holding company, to be known as the New England Flood Credit Corporation, is to handle the holding and selling of the shares, incorporated under Delaware laws.

TO ACT WITH BANKS.

In all loans the actuad administration of the fund is to be handled by the Vrmont Corporation in conjunction with the local banks.

The plan is an outgrowth of the recent conference in Springfield who nexecutive members of the committee of bankers were instructed to lay out plans for relief.

The executive members include Daniel G. Wing of the First National Bank of Boston, Walter S Bucklin of National Shawmut Bank, Guy P. Gannett of the Fidelity Trust Company, Portland; Frederick A Howland of the National Life Insurance Company, Montpelier, Vt., and Frederick M. Jones of the Third National Bank of Springfield.

Legislatures Meet to Act on Flood Relief

Concord, N. H., Nov. 29 (I.N.S.).—A special session of the Legislature convened here today to consider plans for flood relief and determine a financial policy for the reconstruction of bridges and roads. At the same time a special session of the Legislature of Vermont, called by Governor John E. Weeks, was gathering at Montpelier for a consideration of the same problems tomorrow.

The proposed bill gives the Governor authority to borrow up to $3,000,000 to be refunded by a bond issue. An increase of one cent in gasoline tax is the proposal of Governor Huntley N. Spaulding as a means of financing the payment of the loan.

THIEVES GET HIS GOAT, AND HE HAS BUT 2 LEFT

Thieves got George Adiario's goat today, breaking into the barn in the rear of his house on Stanton street, Revere, and leading away one of his three milch goats as Adiario, hearing the noise, got out of bed hurriedly and gave chase. The two thieves eluded him in the early morning darkness.

Please Shoot Me, Says Deer to Unlucky Hub Hunter; He Did

Patrolman Rogers of Revere and Robert Cann, Boston restaurant man, today brought back the newest deer hunting story from the Maine wilds.

Rogers had a deer and a bear, so the story goes. Cann, tired of his ill luck, was sitting under a tree reading a magazine when along comes a deer and offers him a target.

It was the first deer Cann had seen on this season's trip and he lost little time in reaching for his gun and killing the animal. The pair were hunting in the vicinity of Jackman, Me., and St. John's, Quebec.

AUTO FIRE PUT OUT BY INSURANCE WORKERS

Bursting into flames while passing near the new police headquarters building at Stuart and Berkeley streets today, an automobile driven by Gabe Rosen of Berkeley road, Brookline, was the cause of excitement in that vicinity.

As fire apparatus and policemen rushed to the scene, employes of the John Hancock Life Insurance Company, whose building is nearby, extinguished the flames with emergency equipment. A backfire caused the blaze. Damage was estimated at about $50.

SAVINGS BANKS HAVE GREATEST YEAR SINCE '34

Savings banks in Massachusetts during the fiscal year ending Oct 32 marked their greatest business of any year since 1834, it was announced today by the Cavings Bank Association of Massachusetts.

According to figures given out today by the Association the deposits in the 196 mutual savings banks of the State amounted to $1,839,000,000 at the close of the fiscal year, Oct. 31, 1927. This represents a gross gain of $130,000,000 over the corresponding figures of a year ago.

The next nearest amount was in 1923, when $117,000,000 was gained.

Of this gross gain about $76,000,000 represents dividends credited to the depositors' accounts by the banks, and the remaining $54,000,000 represents new deposits.

There are now 2,900,000 open accounts on the books of these banks representing gain of over 29,000 for the year just closed. This means that the average account per depositor is $633.

It is particularly interesting to note that some of the cities which are reported to be hard hit industrially nevertheless show considerable gain in savings accounts.

Fall River, for instance, shows a gain of $2,568,000. Lowell gained $2,676,000 and Lawrence showed a gain of $4,024,000.

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE NEW FORD CAR

Complete details of the new model will be available this FRIDAY in this city

FRIDAY of this week will unquestionably be one of the most important days in the entire life of the automobile industry. On that day, complete details of the new Ford will be available in this city.

You will be surprised when you get the facts about the new Ford car, for you never have dreamed that such a really fine car could be produced at a low price. As Henry Ford himself says—

"The new Ford car embodies the best results of our experience in making 15,000,000 automobiles. We consider it our most important contribution thus far to the progress of the motor industry, to the prosperity of the country, and to the daily welfare of millions of people."

The new Ford car is distinctly a new and modern car, designed to meet new and modern conditions. It is more than a new automobile. It is the advanced expression of a wholly new idea in modern, economical transportation.

An entirely new car in every respect

The minute you see it—ride in it—you will realize that it is not a mere refinement of the former model T Ford, but a new car from radiator cap to rear axle! Many features of it are exclusive Ford developments. Some are wholly new in automobile practice. There is nothing quite like it in quality and price.

The new Ford car has exceptional beauty of line and color. It is, in every respect, a new and modern car, designed and created to meet modern conditions.

The new Ford car has unusual beauty of line and color. . . . It has a 40-horsepower engine. . . . It will do 55 and 60 miles an hour with ease and has actually run 65 miles an hour on road tests. . . . It is quiet and smooth-running at all speeds. . . . It is remarkably quick on the get-away. . . . It has specially designed mechanical four-wheel brakes. . . . It has hydraulic shock absorbers. . . . It has a standard, selective gear shift. . . . It is quick and easy to handle in traffic and steady and sure on the open road. . . . It runs 20 to 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline, depending on your speed. . . . And it has the stamina and reliability that you need for mile-after-mile and year-after-year service.

The new Ford car will sell at a surprisingly low price

When you think of such features as these, you think instinctively of a car costing much more than the new Ford. The low price is as unusual as the appearance and performance of the car itself.

The low prices of the six body types are undoubtedly lower than you thought they would be when you first heard that Ford was making a new car. They are, in fact, lower than we thought they could possibly be when we started to make this car.

We determined to bring new comfort, beauty, speed, safety, economy and reliability within reach of everybody who drives a car, and then forced ourselves to find ways to make the low prices possible.

The new Ford car is the result of years of careful planning. Every part of it has been tested and retested in actual practice. There is no guessing as to whether it will be a successful model. It has to be. There is no way it can escape being so, for it is the sum total of all we have learned about motor car building in the lifetime of the Ford business.

The new Ford has unusual speed and power. It will do 55 and 60 miles an hour with ease and has run 65 miles an hour on road tests.

Some of the features of the new Ford car

In this connection we call your particular attention to the new engine; the new pump, splash and gravity oil system; the multiple dry-disc clutch; the new pump and thermo-syphon cooling system; the new battery, coil and distributor ignition; the low center of gravity and minimum unsprung weight which combine with the hydraulic shock absorbers to make the new Ford such an easy-riding car; the irreversible steering gear, with the column and the housing of the steering gear mechanism welded into a single all-steel unit; the seamless, all-steel torque tube; the new one-piece, welded, steel-spoke wheels; the three-quarters-floating rear axle in a forged-steel housing of exceptional strength; the theft-proof coincidental lock; and the aluminum pistons which were selected after many tests because of their light weight and heat-conducting qualities.

"The new Ford car embodies the best results of our experience in making 15,000,000 automobiles. We consider it our most important contribution thus far to the progress of the motor industry, to the prosperity of the country, and to the daily welfare of millions of people."

Henry Ford

Steel forgings are used throughout except, of course, for the engine castings. More steel forgings, in fact, are used in the new Ford than in almost any other car, regardless of price.

WE ARE able to sell this new Ford car at a low price because we have found new ways to give you greater value without a great increase in our own costs. Because we own our own ore mines, coal mines and timber lands and the source of most of our raw materials. Because we make virtually every part used in the new Ford car. Because it is the Ford policy to make a small profit on a large number of cars, rather than a large profit on a small number of cars.

There is nothing like it in quality and price

No other manufacturer can possibly duplicate the new Ford car at the Ford price because no other manufacturer does business the way we do. The public made this business possible. We believe we should share our profits with the public by continually giving greater and greater value for the money.

There are good and substantial reasons, therefore, why the new Ford car is the most unusual value ever offered in a low-price car.

By all means, learn about the new Ford on Friday when it is officially announced in this city. You will know then that there is nothing quite like it anywhere in quality and price.

N.E. EXPORTERS ENLIST SOUTH AFRICA ENVOY

Members of the New England Export Club endeavored at a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce today to enlist the services of Eric H. Louw, trade commissioner from South Africa to this country, in establishing a steamship line between Boston and Cape Town.

Commissioner Louw, before the luncheon, said he had come to this country in the interests of trade relations between America and South Africa.

"We import some $50,000,000 worth of American products yearly," said the young son of a famous Boer family, "while you buy from us no more than $6,000,000 worth of goods.

"We were sending much of wool of wool to America, as we have more than 30,000,000 sheep in our country and we were on the verge of competing with Australia when a drought hit us and hundreds of thousands of sheep perished."

"For a long time we were so interested in our precious products, diamonds and gold, that we quite neglected whole fortunes in the baser metals, such as mica, carborundum, chrome and so forth, which you use in your industries.

"We import much American machinery, and, in fact, 80 per cent. of all the automobiles in South Africa are of American make.

"Also we receivt a great deal of patent medicines, and lately, because we have the flapper in South Africa just as you do here, we are importing from America considerable cosmetics and toilet preparations."

Shoes Now Rival Pearls in Dress of Women

St. Louis, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Shoes rather than pearls or hats and gowns, are being chosen by the well-dressed woman as the point of dress to be stressed, in the opinion of Anthony H. Geuting, president of the National Shoe Retailers' Association, from Philadelphia. Geuting spoke before the joint convention of the Southwestern Retailers Association and the St. Louis Shoe Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association here.

"The short skirt, the attractive hose and the ingenuity of the creators of shoe styles have made women's shoes the most attractive part of the dress," he said.

"The woman who formerly esteemed it a great privilege to wear a string of pearls finds a small pair of shoes add considerably more towards making her attractive.

HIGH SPEED, 4 WHEEL BRAKES ON NEW FORD

Four-wheel brakes, standard selective gear transmission, extraordinary acceleration, a speed of 60 miles an hour and more, a practically vibrationless engine and unusual beauty in line and color are among the outstanding features of the new Ford cars, the first of which will be shown in many parts of the country Friday.

The generator, oiling system, steering gear and rear axle are of new Ford design, it is announced. And its 40-horsepower engine has been so designed that it runs 20 to 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

This car, which is to succeed the famous Model T line, will be shown on Friday at both the Somerville and Cambridge branches of the Ford Motor Company, and by Ford dealers in many of the larger cities of New England.

MORE MODELS COMING.

In metropolitan Boston photographs and descriptive charts of the new cars will be on display at all Ford dealers' showrooms, where the public will be given the complete story of the new Ford car. Later various models of the new Fordd line will be on display at every dealer's showroom.

So far the new cars have been examined only by those who will have charge of the first showings and demonstrations. Salesmen and demonstrators are studying charts and diagrams which will be used in explaining the various details of design, appearance and performance.

For months factory models of the new car have been undergoing severe performance tests in and around Detroit. One of these factory models recently made a road run of 120 miles in 124 minutes. This run, it is said, was made on an ordinary paved highway near Detroit.

NOTHING LIKE IT.

Local dealers, in commenting on the forthcoming show, said their first view of the new Ford car had substantiated Henry Ford's statement that "there is nothing quite like it in quality and price."

"Mr. Ford's statement had prepared us for a surprise," said a local dealer, "but the new Ford car is better even than we had hoped for. It is certain to make history in the automotive industry, just as its predecessor, the famous Model T, has made history for twenty years. We are proud of the new car and feel certain that its appearance and performance will attract unprecedented attention among automobile owners."

JAIL MYSTERY MAN TO HEAR HIS FATE TODAY

Worcester, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—Before nightfall Leslie L. Irving, mystery man at the Worcester County Jail, who has come back to complete a sentence interrupted 10 years ago when he walked away while a trusty, expects to know if he must serve the 89 days remaining of the two-year sentence or can leave the jail a free man.

Still masking his identity because he says he wants to shield his family, Irving is waiting anxiously the outcome of the efforts of Sheriff Albert F. Richardson, who is today seeking to have him paroled.

MAINE FARMER IS SHOT NEAR HIS HOME

Waterville, Me., Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Millard K. Craig, middle-aged farmer of Sixmont, a village 35 miles northeast of here, was found dead about half a mile from his home after having started toward a neighboring farm with the intention of going on a hunting trip.

Medical Examiner Milliken and Sheriff Farrar, both of Bangor, have been called to investigate. There was a bullet wound in the body.

amination to all prisoners, whether death house inmates or not.

QUOTES LAW.

"We claim that the law is definite on this point," Hazelton said. "Section 491 of the code of criminal proceedure says the warden MUST allow access to counsel, members of family, physicians and ministers of religion, and there can be no equivocating on that point."

Amplifying the meagre statements made by Dr. Neymann after his arrival in New York late yesterday Hazelton said that the man who generally is credited with saving Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb from the gallows has no desire to prove Mrs. Snyder insane, but to show that she was not "morally responsible."

BELIEVED ABNORMAL.

"We want Mrs. Snyder examined for her psycho-analytical reactions," he said. "We believe she is abnormal and that when the facts are put before Governor Smith he will commute the death sentence. It is common knowledge among women themselves that a person of Mrs. Snyder's type has no control over her mental and moral impulses."

Commissioner Kleb, himself an alienist, when told that an effort would be made to have Dr. Neymann examine Mrs. Snyder bluntly announced that the Chicago expert would get no further than the reception room of the prison, thereby upholding Warden Lawes' stand of yesterday.

RADIO DIALOG

by

C. WILLIAM RADOS

IN their annual broadcast, this time from WNAC, the Tech Musical clubs last night wisely stuck to a selection of songs light and popular. We remember the sway of the Banjo Club doing "Barbara" and "Memories." Singable melodies and harmonies went their way and the Glee Club made itself acceptable by sticking to simple but attractive oldtimers.

Stations from everywhere poured in. We only bothered to listen to broadcasts which seriously competed with Boston. They were Chicago, WLS, WMBB, KYW; New York WJZ, WEAF; Pittsburgh, KDKA Newark, WOR; Schenectady, WGY Buffalo, WMAK; Atlantic City, WPG. Yesterday we reported "WEBM" on our American eleven It should have been "WMBB."

KDKA of Pittsburgh furnished the novelty of the evening, being broad over one-third of our dial. It was considerably stronger than WBZ and WLEX. But then last night was exceptionally good for distance.

The "Family hour," WEEI, WEAF, etc., provided a variety of high class entertainment in its weekly broadcast. If this sponsor keeps presenting such artists as Mary Lewis, Weber and Fields, Leo Carillo, Goldman and symphonic orchestras the first thing he knows he will be one of the biggest favortes on the ar.

Preceding Weber and Fields was a symphonic rendition of "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2." This was done in real Hungarian style and as everyone knows, No. 2 is a lot better than No 1. In Hungary the rhapsodies go by size, like shoes but it all sounds fine

John Charles Thomas, baritone singer, stopped the music to sing "Is It Thou," "Masked Ball" and "The Banjo King." The last number was best.

PROSPERITY IS 'MYTH,' SAYS SENATOR NYE

The present "prosperity era" is "a myth," declared Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota, in an address before the Massachusetts Progressive Club here today.

That the bubble must be pricked was the firm belief of Senator Nye. He said he considered an effort in this direction to be the best way in which the Massachusetts branch of the Progressives can aid the national organization at Washington.

This "false notion" of the nation's prosperity, in the opinion of Senator Nye, is fostered at Washington by the International Bankers, who, he said, will inevitably force the cancellation of all foreign debts in their endeavors to cash in on their own loans to these countries.

The resent Sinclair-Doheny scandal is but one instance, so Senator Nye believes, of the strong attempts of the moneyed interests to swing the national government towards their own ends.

All such efforts should be eradicated promptly, if the country is to be placed on a firm foundation of economic security, said the speaker.

Long term credit, which allows the purchase of anything from a pin to an automobile on the installment plan, is the prevalent evidence of the national misconception of prosperity, he asserted.

Senator Nye predicted a financial crisis of even greater magnitude if these practices are not stopped.

Woman Brought From 180 Hours' Coma by Music of Boys

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—A music treatment by her son and his boy friends was given credit today by the physician of Mrs. Ethel Baldwin for her recovery of consciousness after lying in a coma for 180 hours.

Mrs. Baldwin lapsed into a coma November 20, following the death of her husband. Discovery by Durant Baldwin, her son, who is a violinist, that his mother's hands moved when he and a friend, who is a pianist, played together, brought orders from Dr. C. E. Snedden to continue the music. The patient needs only rest to assure recovery.

RADIO IS BETTER WITH BATTERY POWER

Enjoy your radio set

WHEN you turn the switch on your radio set you expect to receive a program from your favorite station that you can enjoy. You expect to hear the music just as it is played—without hum or buzz or other funny noises. If your set is battery powered you'll hear the programs at their best, particularly if the batteries are Eveready.

Eveready "B" Batteries are noted for their long life, but no Eveready Battery lasts nearly so long as the patented Eveready Layerbilt No. 486. This big "B" battery is made up of layer on layer of active materials—more of them than in any other battery of equal size. That's why it lasts longer and why it gives you more for your money. For economical "B" power, for clear reception and freedom from battery worries use the Eveready Layerbilt, built and backed by the

The kind you want at a price without frills

NOW Atwater Kent Radio gives you your choice of two kinds of power supply.

You can have a House-Current set or a Battery set. Both are right.

The House-Current set plugs into your house lighting circuit. Its power is steady, unwavering, as long as your set is turned on. The current costs only a fraction of a cent an hour.

If you prefer batteries, or live where you must have them, there is nothing better than battery-operated Atwater Kent Receivers. Big-scale manufacturing, geared to enormous demand for "the radio that works and keeps on working," makes the price of either kind of set easy to pay.

Of course, either kind may be installed in approved consoles designed for Atwater Kent Radio. Just tell the dealer.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Boston Skating Club's Bi-Weekly Meetings Already Underway on Shining Surface of the Boston Arena

TIME AND TIDE WAIT FOR NO MAN, AND NEITHER DOES THE BOSTON SKATING CLUB. Especially do they not await the coming of Jack Frost to establish his Winter residence hereabouts. For Skating Club members the shining expanse of gleaming ice at the Arena has a lure beyond resistance, so they are opening their Winter's season of bi-weekly sessions this afternoon, and care not when the mythical saint, with his icicles and his snowy mantel, puts in his seasonal appearance or whether he arrives at all.

TUESDAY AND THURSDAY OF EACH AND EVERY WEEK THROUGHOUT THE WINTER IS the bright and shining field of the Arena dedicated to the Skating Club. They come in force, these devotees of the graceful art. Some there are who twirl through complicated spirals with airy insouciance. These are the Club's shining stars. Some there are intent on exercise done to rhythmic measure. But it's the merry fledglings, the youngsters from toddling age up, more energetic than graceful, but doggedly persistent toward proficiency, that delight the gallery.

ALL TOO NUMEROUS ARE THE STARS FOR MORE THAN SCATTERING ALLUSION—MRS THERESA WELD BLANCHARD, Miss Dorothy Weld, Miss Mary Curtis, Nathaniel W. Niles, Maribel Vinson, Thornton Coolidge, Miss Edith Rotch, Charles Rotch, Little Joanna Palfrey, Miss Peggy Read and Miss Polly Beal, Miss Eleonora Sears, Mrs. Channing Frothingham and Miss Helen Seymour, are a few. Some there are at the head of the list who have traveled into far places and upheld the glories of their own club against national and even international competition.

A CUP OF TEA IS THE LATE afternoon custom at these Skating Club sessions. Mrs. Nathaniel W. Niles and Mrs. Edward M. Howland are the tea committee, and for this and the other afternoons they enlist the services of various matrons to pour the steaming and welcome beverage. And not to be satisfied with indoor sessions, the Skating Club looks forward to adding Sunday mornings to its schedule, what time the rink at the Country Club is touched by Jack Frost's sparkling magic.

BESPURRED OFFICERS AND decorated privates; marines in their dress blues; admirals weighty with gold braid; two-star generals as properly turned out as even "Black Jack" himself; aides to admirals and aides to generals, wearing golden fouragere significant of their important place in the service scheme—they'll all dance in the merry maze of Friday evening at the Hotel Statler, at the one big and important Service Ball annually staged to benefit the Soldiers and Sailors Club.

FREQUENT PUBLIC GARDENS

Daily John and Drusella Renn, children of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Renn of No. 23 Lime street, West End, are among the society children who play in the Public Gardens. John is one year old while Drusella is two and a half years old.

FOR THE NONCE FEMININITY AND ITS GLADSOME RAIMENT TAKES SECOND PLACE IN THE decorative scheme—'tis the uniformed masculine contingent bravely bright in its regimentals that always makes a Service Ball the gladsome picture it invariably is. Latest advices about the Ball tell of a dozen officers, four from the Navy, four from the Army, and four from the Marines, enlisted to act as ushers.

CAPTAIN JAMES CROCKETT, AIDE TO MAJOR-GENERAL PRESTON BROWN, IS SECURING THE Army contingent. Commander Jordan aide to Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, acts similarly for the Navy quartet, and Colonel Smith, Commandant of Marines, selects his doughty four. To contrast with all the Service magnificence, twenty and one civilians, important in the social scheme, have been asked to decorate the scene with their formally correct broadcloth and fine linen.

MRS. WALTER MERRIAM PRATT has just had her name inscribed on the box list. It may be that hers will be the last so to be inscribed, for the box reservations were long ago taken up. The list is imposing to a degree, and some brilliant parties will be entertained at dinner and then "brought on" to the Ball. Mrs. Pratt is entertaining at the Hotel Somerset, and later will be in the receiving line. Mrs. Ronald Lyman is a dinner hostess, as well as being chief feminine director for the Ball.

MRS. LYMAN ENTERTAINS at dinner at her Berkeley street apartment for a lion of the evening, Major-General Preston Brown, and his charming spouse, Mrs. Brown. Particularly interesting as having a distinguished honor guest and a distinguished matron as hostess, is Mrs. George Selfridge's dinner for Lady Mercer before the Ball. Patrons high in the official scheme, such as the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy spread their benign influence, even from Washington, over the affair.

SALLY'S SHOULDERS

by Beatrice Burton
Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC—

The Story of a Clever Boston Girl and Her Temperamental Sister

READ THIS FIRST

SALLY JEROME, 20, is the mainstay of her family. Her father had deserted his wife and his children. Besides Sally there are the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, aged 21. Millie, the family beauty, is always losing jobs when her employers "get gay" with her

Sally works at home in the mornings, for her mother is a semi-invalid. In the afternoons she works for MR. PEEVEY, an elderly eccentric, who does a small mail-order business in Chauncy street. TED SLOAN, who lives with his mother in the flat below the Jerome flat in Hemenway street, is a "dancing fool," and Sally has become very friendly with him. But when he tries to make love to her she pulls him up short. Sally sees a handsome man in the elevator. She learns that he is John Nye, with an office across the hall. Sally smashes a bottle of Mr. Peevey's milk in the corridor, and young Nye happens along and goes to buy another bottle. Ted proposes to Sally, but she promises her mother not to wed him Sally tells Millie that Nye needs a stenographer. Mabel Wilmot gives a party at the Jerome flat. Sally's funds are nearly gone and she decides to appeal to her Aunt Emily. But Aunt Emily is planning to open a tea room. Ted again talks marriage. Ted calls again, arriving just as Millie's "sweetie"—named Davidson—arrives to take her out for the evening. Beau works in a bank and Sally wonders where he gets all the money he has had lately.

'IN ABRAHAM'S BOSOM' WELL PRESENTED

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

WHATEVER chance the negro has to lift himself above the servility laid by the original masters in Jamestown and further South, was tipped into oblivion by Paul Green's "In Abraham's Bosom" last [illegible] as the Arlington Theatre returned, in good form and considerable enthusiasm, to the select family of downtown playhouses. Any Pulitzer Prize play on its own account demands attention. "In Abraham's Bosom," having achieved that special distinction, and backed by a [illegible] or less triumphant expedition into the night life of lower Broadway, it naturally was expected that the rejuvenation of the Arlington under such stirring circumstances should add something of fateful significance to the year's best exploit in dramatic elevation.

Whatever a Pulitzer Prize play may exhibit in artistic theatrical utility, may be gracefully discounted in favor of the author if the players behave with discretion and the creator's intent is taken at face value. [illegible] dominated the performance at the Arlington—and it was generally contributed by the sons of [illegible]. The logic of the play was less apparent for it told the story of an obscure negro, whose main object was to be a teacher and the [illegible] [illegible] lower [illegible] quivering [illegible].

The [illegible] appeal [illegible] [illegible] Sad stories are just so [illegible] for those who listen to them and "In Abraham's Bosom" [illegible] planted tears in profusion to the last lachrymatory duet. There was not a full-sized laugh during the evening—not even a smile.

However [illegible] acting [illegible]—almost [illegible] Africa. In Abraham [illegible] the actor had an able ally in Thomas Moseley, who strived and suffered, and who [illegible] no false notes. Mr. Moseley bore up [illegible] under a great pressure of [illegible] burden. Hardly less [illegible] was the Mob Muck of Alice Francis and the [illegible] of Alston [illegible] who [illegible] in an un[illegible] [illegible] did it well.

"In Abraham's Bosom" was simply sombre drama, dripping with earthly woes. It gave more than passing evidence that gloom, misery and aching hearts have strings and winning influence with the professors and judges who pick what the world is expected to accept as a dramatic [illegible].

PODOLSKY PLEASES IN FIRST HUB CONCERT

Leo Podolsky, a Russian pianist, gave his first Boston concert at Jordan Hall before a good-sized and fairly enthusiastic audience. His program was notable in that it included many Russian pieces that are not often played here.

The Bach-Liszt Variations on "Wailing, Crying, Mourning, Sighing" were the first number, followed by Schumann's "Davidsbundler" dances. Two early preludes by Szymanowski, an intermezzo by Reger, and pieces by Debussy and de Falla constituted the third group. The last group included a Medtner Fairy-tale and three numbers by the mystic Scriabine.

Mr. Podolsky gave the impression of being a [illegible] who [illegible] for [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] his expression. The [illegible] at home than the other music.

STORE MANAGERS MEET IN SOMERVILLE

Representing 1750 stores more than [illegible] and officials of the First National Stores from all parts of New England assembled at the company's plant in Middlesex avenue, Somerville, for an inspection of that vast food base and to listen to words of advice from the heads of the corporation.

Michael O'Keeffe, president of the company, called attention to the close harmony that has existed among the various departments of the concern since the merger of the various large companies into the First National Stores, Inc. He also cited the savings, realized through the merger, that had been passed on to the public.

Charles F. Adams, treasurer, told of Mr. O'Keeffe's early career as a "grocery [illegible]" and of his [illegible] toward [illegible] would win and hold public confidence.

Augustus [illegible] told the managers of their responsibilities, saying they were "on the firing line" and that the company would be judged by their actions.

Others to speak included Arthur O'Keeffe, a vice-president; James C. Duane, a vice-president and sales manager; Edward R. Sherburne, a sales manager; Martin Curry, director and head of the purchasing department; Nathaniel E. Whittemore, head of the warehouse and transportation and Bernard McGoldrick, a sales manager.

SENIOR LEAGUE DANCE TAKES PLACE TONIGHT

The annual dance of the Senior League, Young Judea of Greater Boston, takes place tonight in Repertory Hall and will be attended by representatives of most of the younger Jewish organizations. [illegible] Soldner, heads the committee, which includes: Sadie Goren, [illegible] Cooperstock, Mrs. Sidney Epstein, Esther Goldner, Mrs. Charlotte [illegible] Helfant, Libby Jacobson, Annabelle Korlan, Miriam Koplovitz, Anne Orris, Leah Robinson, Mrs. Hyman Shocket, Leo J. Sieve, Julius Gerbner, Rose Levin, Frances Biegel, Julia Wheeler, Helen Alpert, Fannie Halprin and Frank B. Kuban.

'MY MARYLAND' MAKES HIT AT THE SHUBERT

Imagine a stage crowded with a full sized chorus singing a patriotic song ending in the strains of "Glory Glory, Hallelujah," a Civil War locale, and a cheering, hurrahing audience and you have a resume of what happened at the opening of "My Maryland," Sigmund Romberg's operetta, at the Shubert last night. "Your Land and My Land," which was not only the hit of the show but one of the most impressive hits in a score of operettas that have come to Boston.

Olga Cook

The number was used a good many times during the course of the evening's entertainment but it was worth it. It had a thrill and a melodious appeal which, with just the right kind of setting and with first-rate singing by the chorus and principals, took the audience by storm.

There were other melodious tunes in this operetta which will please many tastes. The story retold the Barbara Fritchie legend only [illegible] was rejuvenated into the [illegible] the [illegible] of Confederate [illegible] Union Army, [illegible] Alexander Gaton [illegible] is in the [illegible] and [illegible] stopped in the end. And the last scene, showing Barbara Fritchie waving the Union flag in the very face of Stonewall Jackson's advancing [illegible] was also of a type to [illegible] audiences.

The chorus was the real star of this show, for it was a collection of good voices singing with unusual spirit. It was ably assisted by a cast with a varied assortment of talents.

MARILYN MILLER'S NEW SHOW OPENS DEC. 8

Florenz Ziegfeld announces that the world premiere of Marilyn Miller in "Rosalie," with Jack Donahue, is now definitely set for Thursday evening, Dec. 8, at the Colonial Theatre.

The mounting of the massive production, and the necessity for having sufficient dress rehearsals in Boston, in order to insure the perfect first performance of a new production, have led to the postponement.

EAST CAMBRIDGE WILL HONOR RADIO STARS

Nearly two thousand citizens of East Cambridge, on Thursday night will attend Loew's State theatre to pay tribute to the Ponce sisters, radio and recording artistes, appearing there this week.

The occasion is sponsored by the East Cambridge Catholic Club and is inspired by the fact that these two girls are the granddaughters of the late John H. Ponce, at one time a widely known lawyer and leader in the civic life of Cambridge.

CLAUDIA DELL

With Marilyn Miller and Jack Donahue in Ziegfeld's new "Rosalie" which will have its premiere December 8 at the Colonial.

BILLY WATSON AT GAYETY

Back of his tangled talk and slippery feet, "Sliding" Billy Watson demonstrated his showmanship in the attraction he yesterday uncovered at the Gayety.

Louise Brydon

He has brought with him a company of clever men and women as principals and backed them with one of the [illegible] choruses of the season.

Particularly strong in musical [illegible] [illegible] spectacular scenes, bright [illegible] many intriguing novelties. Dew and Sto[illegible] Mor[illegible]ford and Lang, Jackson and Tevor and Frank L. Norton contributed vaudeville bits that were warmly applauded.

Jack Ryan, Frank and Ma[illegible] [illegible] were appreciated and applauded. The spectacular "Aviation" close to the first part was an effective bit of [illegible].

'TENTH AVENUE' OPENS AT HOLLIS

While "Tenth Avenue," new crook play at the Hollis, is not the kind that teaches a great moral lesson it does manage to convey a pretty fair idea of how not to conduct a boarding house. That you can [illegible] even while [illegible] "little mother" to [illegible] was another [illegible] except Edna Hibbard [illegible]

Edna Hibbard

[illegible] family [illegible] the last jail bird to his [illegible]. Indeed, "Tenth Avenue" was like that. It introduced you to nothing more inspiring in the way of masculine characters than a card sharp, a murderer, a pair of bootleggers and a pickpocket. In each [illegible] you found the only woman in the cast—fighting a losing battle trying to keep a home and a good name for a group of naughty boys who had little use for either.

Another object lesson for the evening, it seemed, was that the itch in a gunman's trigger finger is incurable.

This was demonstrated for your [illegible] the girl decided to [illegible] the card sharp instead of the murderer [illegible] because of [illegible] of the former's [illegible].

When William Boyd as the chronic gambler made his first appearance it was evident from the [illegible] greeting that many of the first-nighters had seen him in New York do his magnificent Sergeant Quirt in "What Price Glory." These expected much of him and Mr. Boyd in a considerably weaker character, did his best not to disappoint them.

Other [illegible] effective portrayals were those of Orville Harris, as a wise-cracking pickpocket, Gregory [illegible]off as a cheap bootlegger, Harry Bannister as the suave trickster and John Butler as a hooligan "come on."

For a crook play "Tenth Avenue" [illegible] the American [illegible]. Instead [illegible] at times humorous, [illegible].

'PEGGY-ANN' SCORES AT WILBUR

Take a flawless cast and a bevy of electrified dancers, shake in a hundred or more roaring laughs, spice with an [illegible] stir in some tuneful [illegible] add a [illegible] [illegible] the result is "Peggy-Ann." This is the little show that opened at the Wilbur Theatre last night. And the audience certainly gave this little show a [illegible] hand. They deserved it, the show and the company. It isn't often a musical comedy gives an audience everything it wants. But last night, "Peggy-Ann" soared into dreamland, bounced back to earth with side-splitting burlesque, lulled with melody, and delighted with the rare taste of its staging and costumes.

Helen Ford

Peggy-Ann, alias Helen Ford, dreams her way out of a dull boarding house in Glens Falls, N. Y., into the fantastic glamor of Fifth avenue, a de luxe gown shop, a millionaire's yacht, and Havana. It's all a dream, and very funny and fantastic and gay. Peggy-Ann, in her dream, [illegible] [illegible] the grocery-boy she loved back in Glens Falls and after dazzling adventures, wakes to find him still her grocery boy.

Helen Ford brought to her role a charm and grace and tang of comedy that was a joy. Her voice was smooth and pleasureable, her personality completely winning.

Lulu McConnell, a big blonde comic whirlwind, stopped the show with some gorgeous clowning. Betty Starbuck, an obstreperous little comedienne, contributed a full share of the laughs of the evening. Lester Cole, the grocery-boy, sang delightfully. Every member of the cast provided enough pep and zest for a dozen shows.

The ensemble dancing, both in [illegible] and execution, brought forth [illegible] rousing cheers as a winning touchdown at a gridiron classic.

[illegible] an actual bit of staging for [illegible]. The music was the [illegible] the audience hums all the way [illegible].

Continuing Shows

PLYMOUTH—"Broadway." Life behind the scenes in a New York night club.

TREMONT—Miller and Lyles in "Rang-Tang." Dixieland entertainers in comedy, music and dance.

MAJESTIC—Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit in "Oh, Kay." Rum running made into lively musical comedy.

COPLEY—"No. 17." A mystery thriller, liberally sprinkled with good humor.

COLONIAL—Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield in "Allez Oop." Last days of the town's best dancing show.

'GREEN HAT' AT ST. JAMES

Michael Arlen's famous drama, "The Green Hat," which played at a downtown theatre two seasons ago, was again seen in Boston last evening at the St. James.

Clara Joel, leading lady, making her first appearance, filled the difficult role of Iris March to the full satisfaction of a capacity audience. Judging from the generous applause which greeted Miss Joel at the final curtain she is bound to become a favorite with stock patrons.

Always capable and debonair, Walter Gilbert was at his best as the lover of Iris. The inimitable Charles Schofield gave a humorous portrayal of the old French physician. Frank Charlton and John W[illegible], both old favorites, interpreted their roles equally well.

The performances of Malcolm A[illegible], Day Manson, Edith Speare, [illegible] Rona Beal deserve a great [illegible] more than passing mention. It is [illegible] well worth seeing and those who have been fortunate enough [illegible] seen it should go again.

GOOD SINGING ON BILL AT KEITH'S

If you enjoy good singing don't miss B. F. Keith's this week. Nellie and Sara Kouns give a short recital that pleases everybody. They sing "As I Went Roaming," the "Blue Danube Waltz," the "Swiss Echo" song, "Lo! Hear the Gentle Lark," "Over [illegible]," "O Sole Mio" and "Just for Tonight."

Jed Dooley with [illegible] Evans makes "remarks befitting the occasion" and [illegible] a Will Rogers act minus the gum chewing.

Los Hermanos Williams' dancers, from the [illegible], not only dance but [illegible].

Billy House and company in "[illegible]" [illegible] and Rosetta Ryan and Francis and Frank are also on the bill.

'TWO ARABIAN KNIGHTS' GOES OVER BIG

By LEO GAFFNEY

"Two Arabian Knights" at Loew's State ought to win first prize for the best film comedy of the year. For one of those knockabout soldier boy affairs [illegible] spreads itself as neatly on the screen as the most carefully made super super." And although there is plenty of hard handed rough stuff no bit of it is crude or strained, not one humorous detail gives the smallest suggestion of being dragged in by the ears. Louis Wolheim, the original Captain Flagg of "What Price Glory" on the stage, and William Boyd, smooth-faced hero of "The Volga Boatman" and many other films, are the inevitable comic "buddy" team; Mary Astor is a pictorial heroine, and the direction is Lewis Milestone's, maker of some of the Harold Lloyd comedies.

Louis Wolheim

Honors for the production must go to Wolheim and Milestone. The former's appearance is misleading. His figure easily suggests the squat ape-man character of the Eugene O'Neil imaginings; his gargoylian countenance, it must be confessed, is nearly as shapeless as a dish of well mashed potatoes, but for sheer [illegible] not one of the films' handsome heroes may be mentioned in the same sentence with him.

"Two Arabian Knights" recited the adventures of a pair of doughboys who break out of a German prison camp, thrash around perilously for awhile in hostile territory, and then wind up amazingly in distant Arabia. Here, they get into all sorts of scrapes and finally make off undismayed with the Emir's daughter.

Mr. Milestone must have had something to do with the subtitles, too. Only sparsely do they crop up in the action. The main narration is done by the camera and Mr. Wolheim's superb pantomime. Both are [illegible] considerate of your imagination.

"Two Arabian Knights" is one of the best ever.

'7TH HEAVEN' IS FEATURE AT ORPHEUM

"Seventh Heaven," based on John Golden's stage success by Austin Strong, is the feature photoplay at Loew's Orpheum.

It is a charming romance of a little Paris street waif and her sweetheart who climbed from the depths of degradation to the Seventh Heaven of happiness.

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, the twin stars who rose to fame with their work in this production, give truly remarkable characterizations in their roles of Chico and Diane. Gladys Brockwell, Ben Bard, David Butler and others lend able assistance.

Heading the variety bill are Braile and Pallo, featured dancers in a big melody and dance act. They are assisted by the Jugo-Slav Royal orchestra and Mel Elwood. Frank Terry, vaudeville and former screen star and the composer of countless song numbers, pleases with his popular recitations, topped by the famous "Mr. Booze."

Other acts include "Going Straight," a comedy skit with Georgie Taylor; Meyers and Nolan in a medley of song and jest, and Tieber's seals.

FLORENCE VIDOR IN SMART COMEDY FILM

A [illegible] comedy romance of love beneath the moonlight is "Honeymoon Hate" at the Keith-Albee Boston. It is the adaptation of Alice M. Williamson's story of the same name. Florence Vidor is the star.

But "Honeymoon Hate" is different from anything Miss Vidor has ever done. She has been seen in comedies, that's true, but never in such a fiery and impetuous characterization as that of Gail Grant, accustomed to having everything her own way.

Tullio Carminati plays Prince Dantarini, who falls in love with Gail Grant, marries her and "tames" her, a difficult task cleverly accomplished. William Austin takes comedy honors in the role of Banning Green, eccentric Englishman who is always too late in meeting and wooing the heroine.

Six acts of vaudeville, headed by Elizabeth Brice, with Frank Kessler and his music weavers, complete the program.

BEING "DIRECTOR" MEANS CASH AND DIGNITY TO HIM

Now its William H. O'Brien, director Telephone-Telegraph Utilities.

The former title "chief of the telephone and telegraph division department of public utilities," under which Mr. O'Brien has worked since the departments were reorganized fifteen years ago, was thrown into the discard in the recent reclassification of State employes and officials.

While the new [illegible] raising adds dignity to the position, best of all it brings an increase in salary.

TREASURER OF $15,000,000 MISSION FUND VANISHES

New York, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—With J. H. Hilton, treasurer and director, missing today "under suspicious circumstances," officers of the Longwood Missionary Fellowship announced the abandonment of a $15,000,000 drive for a fundamentalist training school.

Coincident with the announcement officials expressed their concern over the identity of a mysterious John W. English, whose supposed donation of $2,400,000 towards the school resulted in installing Hilton as an officer of the organization.

MAY M'AVOY TO APPEAR WITH BARTHELMESS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Nov. 29.—I had almost begun to think Richard Barthelmess might make "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" without a leading lady, there was so much negotiating going on. But Richard is to have two feminine leads. So, you see, it pays to wait. May McAvoy, for whom negotiations with Warners have been going on for the past month, is to play one of the important roles, and Mary O'Day the other.

The little O'Day girl, Sally O'Neil's sister—played opposite [illegible] in "The Patent Leather Kid." At the time she was engaged Al [illegible] gave her the [illegible] of [illegible] who [illegible] taking too great a [illegible].

New Moily is back at First National, signed by Henry Hobart, producer of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." Al Santell, director, hopes to do [illegible] "Tol'able David," Barthelmess' best picture—and also laid in the hills.

There need be no more rumors about Constance Talmadge's affiliation with First National. Connie settled all that when she signed a long term contract with Joseph Schenck.

Mr. Schenck sent a telegram announcing this fact, and also that Connie's first will be "East of the Setting Sun," a George Barr McCutcheon story. This has been on the Schenck-Talmadge [illegible] for goodness knows how long, and it is one of the Graustark series.

The great American mystery is solved. Cecil De Mille has let it be known what stage actor has the gold-plated distinction of playing the boy in "The Godless Girl."

His name is George Duryea and he is a well known juvenile stage actor who has a list of successes to his name. He is good looking, attractive and all agog over Hollywood and the film celebrities. He was a guest at the Mayfair Club Saturday night, and I don't believe there was any one there who had so good a time.

Someone started the story that Vera Reynolds was through at the Cecil De Mille Studios. "Buzz, buzz, buzz," went the report. A terrific battle, as emotional as the one between C. B. and Jetta Goudal, was given as the reason.

The De Mille Studios now take pleasure in stating that this rumor is without foundation and Miss Reynolds will start work almost immediately on "Walking Back."

FLOOD KILLS 500 IN ALGERIA

Oran, Algeria, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—It was estimated today that the total loss of life in the floods which swept northwestern Algeria would exceed 500.

The situation is still grave. The weather is bad. The water while receding in some places is rising in others. A torrential rainfall continues.

Communications have been cut everywhere. Efforts have been made to drop food from airplanes to the stricken villages of the countryside.

At Mostaganem, where the worst damage was caused, [illegible] persons, including [illegible] Europeans perished. Several hundred are thought to have drowned in the outlying districts. Mostaganem is crowded with refugees from these districts.

Moscow, Nov. 29 (I.N.S.)—Forty-two were feared to have drowned today in severe storms which swept the Black and Caspian Seas. Several hundred fishermen and 117 fishing smacks were missing.

FORD STOCK OF CANADA UP TO $700 A SHARE

Ford Motor of Canada, the Canadian subsidiary of the Ford Motor Company, jumped $65 to a record high price of $700 a share on the New York Curb Exchange today as the result of the widely heralded completion of the new Ford models and the large influx of buying orders.

This is the only representative of the Ford family enterprise in the listed speculative markets and the stock has had a fairly wide distribution.

Earlier in the year Ford Motor of Canada sold at $313 and its current price shows an advance of more than [illegible]. Since the [illegible] of last week the stock has advanced [illegible] market [illegible].

30 MONTHS FOR MAKING RUM

Thirty months in the East Cambridge House of Correction, the longest jail sentence in Hub Federal court record for violation of the Volstead act, today was meted out to Isaac Berley of Chelsea, a former resident of Cambridge, when he pleaded guilty to manufacturing liquor and possession of property designed for its manufacture.

Berley was arrested in a raid on a Chelsea garage by Prohibition Agents Goldman and Petit. A 400-gallon still was in operation, they said.

Assistant United States Attorney Elihu D. Stone recommended the longest sentence possible, telling Judge Morton it was Berley's second offense and the liquor, manufactured from denatured alcohol, was proved poisonous.

"PINT OF GIN" PRISONER APPEALS TO U. S. COURTS

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Counsel for Fred Palm, convicted recently of possessing a pint of gin, and sentenced to life imprisonment under Michigan's new criminal code, providing life sentences for persons convicted a fourth time after a felony, will appeal the sentence to the United States District Court of Appeals of Cincinnati.

Louis A. Cuvillier of New York, chairman and general counsel of the National Constitutional Liberty League of America, made this announcement after a conference with Harry F. Hittle, attorney for Palm.

The appeal Cuvillier said, would be based largely upon the fact the 18th amendment declares illegal possession of liquor unless directly or indirectly conected with sale, a misdemeanor, while the Michigan law makes such an offense a felony.

POWERS TO REFUSE RUSS AND GERMAN ARMS PLEA

Geneva, Nov. 29 (I.N.S.).—Although the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Conference will not open until tomorrow, Soviet Russia and Germany began aggressive but unsuccessful campaign today to line up the big powers in favor of discussing armament reduction. The German delegation headed by Count Johann von Bernstorff, conferred with Soviet Russian delegates headed by Maxim Litvinoff.

It was understood France, England and Italy had already agreed not to meet the requests of the Soviets and Germany to expand the conference program to include general discussion of universal disarmament.

X-RAY REVEALS FLAWS IN STEEL STRUCTURES

New Orleans, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The X-Ray which enables science to photograph the delicate movements of the muscular action of the human heart is equally useful in determining the slightest flaws in huge steel and iron structures, several hundred radiologists from throughout the United States and from foreign countries were told here. Professor Franz Groedel, Bad Nauheim, Germany, exhibited at the convention a motion picture showing the throbbing of a human heart. The picture was produced by means of the X Ray.

BITTEN BY ESKIMO DOG AS BE INSTALLS TELEPHONE

An Eskimo dog, misunderstanding the reason for a stranger's presence in the house, bit Walter Stackhouse of Harrington avenue, Revere, in the right leg as Stackhouse was installing a telephone in a house in Hichborn street.

Stackhouse was knocked over as the dog sprang at him and was bitten before he could get up. Three stitches were taken in the wound by Dr. Frank E. Rowe, to whose office the telephone employe ran.

WIFE FAINTS AS CONVICT HUSBAND BARES HER ACTS

London, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Mrs. Haley Morris, co-defendant with her husband in a startling trial in 1925, collapsed in court today during a hearing of a divorce suit filed by Morris from a prison cell.

Morris, who is serving a three-year term for offenses against young girls, had just finished presenting evidence of his wife's alleged misconduct.

Judge Keyes' Wife Dies

Real Comfort This Winter

YOU'LL be amazed to see how much Radiantfire heat will mean to the whole family this winter—in comfort, health and convenience. A Radiantfire in the living room makes a cozy, comfortable spot for the family to gather. When the youngsters come in chilled and shivering or with wet feet, it will quickly warm and dry them.

In the chamber it makes a cheery warmth to dress in on bleak, cold mornings.

Radiantfire saves money in Autumn and Spring—you don't need to start the furnace so early or keep it going so late.

Radiantfire gives you instant warmth and leaves the air of the room fresh. That means better health.

Come today and see for yourself what a wonderful heat Radiantfire produces.

That New Arena
Money Back of It
Which Is Well

Rickard Has Genius

So Tunney Balks

By NICK FLATLEY

BIG BOSTON ARENA REALITY, NOT A DREAM

BOSTON will have the world's greatest indoor sport Arena. The new athletic palace has passed from a dream to an actuality and nothing is left to do but incidental things like construction and painting and decorating. The Boston & Maine, the Madison Square Garden Corporation and some of Boston's wealthiest sportsmen are behind the new project, which means that plenty of money is present to keep things going until profits begin to roll in

Nick Flatley

Making an arena pay is quite a proposition Boston will have to be educated to the New York idea. The large village has more sport fish to the square inch than any place in the world. Jack Curley used to say that as soon as he announced anything for the Garden in New York he was sure of 5,000 customers. The visiting firemen and the various delegates assured a good gate.

Boston isn't that way at all. This city will turn out en masse for any good attraction. For two, or even three attractions on the same night. But Boston is decidedly meticulous about what it considers a real card. Affairs that would pack New York ball parks or arenas go flat in this section.

For instance, the recent fight between Messers Paolino and Risko in the New York Garden was a wonderful financial proposition. The boys were fighting to get good tickets. Here in your own city the row would have been called off just about a week before it was supposed to be staged. The advance sale would have amounted to $7.62.

Boston can be the biggest sport center in the country. The fans are here, and the money also. But the customers will buy nothing except the very best line of goods. The new arena will try to sell that line, but competition will not be light. The moneyed directors have a rough detour in front, before they hit the smoothly paved highway, though they may know it.

They have the cash, though, and the intention. The best evidence of this is found in part of the official statement issued after the formal organization. This statement was authorized by John R. Macomber, chairman of the board of directors, Homer Loring, head of the B. and M. executive committee, and Tex Rickard, the somewhat well-known promoter. So it goes.

"Boston's Madison Square Garden will be built as part of the New North Station," the statement starts. "It will be leased for 25 years to a corporation composed of Boston and New England business men and men identified with Madison Square Garden in New York. With the local interests, representing men long identified with business and sports on a high plane in Boston and New England, and with the co-operation of the Madison Square organization in matters of national scope, together with the exceptional size, location, and modern facilities which the Boston Madison Square organization will enjoy, Greater Boston is assured of a sports and convention center which will surpass anything of its kind in the world."

IT WILL TAKE COMMUTERS AT LEAST A DECADE TO REALIZE THAT ANYTHING GOOD CAN HAPPEN AT THE NORTH STATION

It's easy to make a fortune on paper, but it often takes plenty of paper to keep said fortune from sinking.

RICKARD CHASED GIBSON FROM RINGSIDE SEAT

MISTER TEX RICKARD is not an eloquent orator, but he can say plenty once he starts, which is much more to the point. He admitted that he came into New York alone and that he has regretted the experience ever since. Tex was hammered and harried on all sides, but he persisted and came through on his own genius.

Then he was taken into the money. Now that the organization is complete, the boys are trying to push Tex out of the driver's seat. That is one reason why he is willing to come to Boston, although his main incentive is his instinctive knowledge that this is a fallow sport field that has never been properly tilled

All Mister Rickard needs is proper backing anywhere, and he will put something over in a big way. He did it in Philadelphia and Chicago, where the millionaires always hesitated to take chances. Now they are ready to promote themselves. He will do it here, as well. Tex will always linger as one of the outstanding figures on the American sport stage

He made quite a few interesting statements, among other things declaring that he would probably give Boston a real championship fight before very many moons had dropped down below the horizon. But his best bit was an unconscious explanation of the cause of the present trouble between himself and Gene Tunney, heavyweight champ, who has tucked away more than a million as his share of Rickard shows

GENE SHOULD LOOK ON TEX AS THE CONCENTRATED ESSENCE OF SANTA CLAUS

TUNNEY, however, is trying to break his contract with Rickard. Here's the answer. You will recall that Billy Gibson is Gene's manager

"The first rule I made in my own mind," chirped Tex, "was that anybody with a seat would sit in that seat. The New York cops tried to get all the free tickets there were, so I got a gang of ushers and dressed them up in uniforms like policemen. When they told a squatter to beat it, he thought a cop was on his neck, and he got out.

"They tried to stop me legally, claiming that it was against the law to copy police uniforms, but I licked them on that. My own gang saw that the buyers got their seats. One night THEY CHASED BILLY GIBSON OUT OF A RINGSIDE SEAT. HE PUT UP A FINE ARGUMENT, BUT HE HAD TO TAKE THE AIR. AND HE DIDN'T LIKE IT."

So now Gibson, as Tunney's manager, with a heavyweight champion as a drawing card, is perfectly willing to toss Rickard overboard if he can and make some money on his own. What most mortals would consider mere trifles often cause million dollar wars in sport circles. Where wads of easy money are parked, there will always be strife and tribulation. Nobody ever thinks of the chap who parked the wads.

Jack Dempsey to Write Sensational Expose of Tunney Fight

The greatest sports feature of the decade starts in the Boston Evening American next Monday.

It is Jack Dempsey's own inside story of his second and last bout with Champion Gene Tunney in Chicago, with especial emphasis on that sensational "long count" seventh round.

"Let the chips fall where they may," is Dempsey's attitude in his complete story of the fight.

Champion Tunney, sports writers, the referee, timekeepers, and many spectators have already written their versions of that boxing thriller. And now comes the signed story about that so-called "long count" by one whom millions believe to be the "victim" of it—Dempsey himself.

Start this story in next Monday's Boston Evening American and continue it daily.

By BILL GRIMES

For their third battle in four days, the Bruins tackle the Montreal Maroons this evening at the Boston Arena.

The American champions of the National Hockey League have been through two tough games with the New York teams and in Montreal will stack up against another hard-fighting aggregation.

The Montreal Maroons are one of the fastest and heaviest outfits ever identified with professional hockey. With Hooley Smith is still on the suspended list, the Maroons are leading the Canadian division of the N. H. L. with three victories and a tie out of five games. The Chicago Blackhawks is the only team with a win to its credit over Eddie Gerard's club.

Manager Gerard will start his veteran line, Babe Siebert, Nels Stewart and Bill Phillips against the Bruins, with Dune Munro and Red Dutton on the outer defense and Clint Benedict in the nets.

Siebert and Stewart are playing their usual high class article of hockey while Phillips has stepped right into Punch Broadbent's shoes. As usual, Siebert and Stewart are up with the leading goal getters in the N. H. L. and promise to make things interesting for the Boston defense tonight.

Manager Gerard has picked up three promising youngsters in Russell Oatman, Bill Tierney and Jimmie Ward. Oatman is a brother of the Tigers defense man and has been used at right wing while Tierney is a left wing and centre who was purchased from the Stratford, Ont., team of the Canadian League.

The Bruins are not in the best physical condition after their games with the Rangers and the Americans. Frank Fredrickson did not make the trip to New York on Sunday due to badly wrenched shoulder ligaments.

Students and Alumni Divided on Daley

The fate of the Boston College graduate coaching system will be settled at the annual Boston College Alumni Association dinner in honor of the football team which will be held at the Elks' Club this evening.

Boston College is split into two factions concerning Head Coach Leo Daley, despite the great victory over Holy Cross. A good many of the B. C. alumni are dissatisfied with Daley's record during the past season

They feel that he did not produce [illegible] although he had some fine material to work with. Ten of the team that started against Holy Cross last Fall were available when Daley took over the [illegible].

STUDENTS SUPPORT LEO.

All in all the season was one of the poorest in B. C.'s history. And some of the old grads, casting aside their enthusiasm over the Holy Cross victory, are beginning to realize this and are not supporting Daley's return.

But the Boston College student body is backing Daley to a man. They want Leo back next Fall. They believe that he's a worthy successor to the famous Major Cavanaugh and that he should be given another chance next season now that his system has gained a foothold.

Daley realizes the situation and is [illegible]

It is expected that Leo will announce his plans for the future at the banquet tonight although he [illegible]

If Daley goes back to the Heights in 1928 he will find the going [illegible] loses but four men from this year's team. [illegible] worry about lack of material.

Rockne Charters Ocean Liner for Olympic Tour

New York, Nov. 29.—Knute Rockne, famous football coach of Notre Dame University, yesterday entered a new field of activity. He chartered a boat from the Cunard S. S. Line. His purpose is to lead a tour to the 1928 Olympic games, to be held in Amsterdam.

In order to devote himself to the project, which promises to be the greatest tour of the Continent ever sponsored by an individual, Rockne will give up all his Summer coaching schools next year. The revenue from this source in past seasons has netted him an average of more than $[illegible].

While the Rockne tour will be primarily to the Olympic games, the party will visit six countries besides Holland.

Thrilling Plays in Notre Dame-So. California Struggle ~ Before 110,000 Fans in Chicago Last Saturday

ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN FIG URES IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL Is Christy Flanagan, the dazzling and bone crushing Notre Dame halfback. He rates with the great Notre Dame backs of all time. In this picture Flanagan is ripping through the Southern California line in last Saturday's game. Note in picture Flanagan dragging two opponents along with him.

Red Grange Selects Cole on His Team

Red Grange's All-Eastern Elevens

POSITION	FIRST ELEVEN	SECOND ELEVEN
Left End	Cole, Dartmouth	Moeser, Princeton
Left Tackle	Hake, Pennsylvania	Sprague, Army
Left Guard	Miller, Amherst	Owerner, Navy
Center	Howe, Princeton	Charlesworth, Yale
Right Guard	Webster, Yale	Cervini, Holy Cross
Right Tackle	Kern, Pittsburgh	Smith, Pennsylvania
Right End	Born, Army	Scott, Yale
Quarterback	Connor, N. Y. U.	Ellis, Tufts
Left Halfback	Caldwell, Yale	Roepke, Penn State
Right Halfback	Welch, Pittsburgh	Marsters, Dartmouth
Fullback	Miles, Princeton	Amos, Wash. & Jeff.

By HAROLD E. ("RED") GRANGE

New York, Nov. 29.—Yale, Princeton and Pittsburgh get two places each, and five positions are divided equally among Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Army, Navy, New York University and Amherst in the eleven which I have come to regard as the All-Star aggregation of the Eastern group.

There probably will be some surprises in the selections, but I have [illegible] conclusions after going over information obtained [illegible] hundreds of players.

[illegible]

COLE ON END.

My [illegible] Cole, of Dartmouth [illegible] forward passes. [illegible] larly [illegible] a rare [illegible]

Born [illegible] best [illegible] pressed [illegible] Dame. Moeser, of Princeton, and Scott, of Yale, ranked next in end play.

Hake of Pennsylvania, and Kern, of Pittsburgh, are my first selections for tackle positions. I regard Hake as the outstanding tackle of the East and one of the best in the country. Kern is big and rough and, while not as good a tackle as Hake, is above the ordinary.

Both are great [illegible] and that is what [illegible] either of these tackles [illegible] season. Kern was the main part of the Pittsburgh line and [illegible] of the Army, was another high-class tackle, and Smith, of Penn, a fourth.

Webster of Yale and Miller of Amherst are my [illegible] for [illegible] Wogner of the Navy and Cervini of Holy Cross [illegible] Webster, I believe is the best guard in the East. He can come out of his position and run in interference well.

NAMES AMHERST MAN.

Miller, according to football men who have seen [illegible] is one of the greatest guards [illegible] With a team [illegible] is extremely [illegible] up almost every [illegible] and his work stands out in every [illegible]

[illegible] of Princeton, as the best [illegible] East even though [illegible] against Charles [illegible] the Yale-Princeton game [illegible] I rate him [illegible]

He was a wonderful passer and [illegible] stronger defensively [illegible] Howe was the outstanding man in a great Princeton line, so he had to be above the ordinary.

FISH ELLIS ON SECOND.

Connor, of New York University, and Ellis of Tufts are my choices [illegible] for [illegible] Connor was a smart [illegible] and he was a good ball carrier and passer.

His forward passing at times was remarkable. He was a kicker above the ordinary, [illegible] the presence of Strong on the team kept this skill somewhat in the background. Ellis of Tufts would have been a big star with one of the larger college teams.

Caldwell of Yale and Welsh of Pittsburgh are my halfback choices, with Miles of Princeton as fullback. Roepke of Penn State, Marsters of Dartmouth and Amos of Washington and Jefferson make up my second trio of backs.

[illegible] Welsh was the best back in the country this year. He ranked with the fastest, was a powerful [illegible] open field running or in slants off tackle. The Yale offense was built around Caldwell, and even though [illegible] two big games [illegible] place with [illegible] He surely [illegible] He was another [illegible] and a star in all departments of play.

'FISH' ELLIS IS OUT OF TUFTS BASKETBALL

A gloomy outlook for the success of the basketball season at Tufts prevailed today when the [illegible] candidates reported to Coach Manly for their first practice.

"Fish" Ellis, Tuft's only four major sport man and a star forward last year, and Leo Applani a veteran guard and a football letter man, are both down in their studies and ineligible until next February.

The loss of these two regulars will prove a serious handicap to the new coach in whipping together a squad which will be a match for the strong Northeastern five, who are scheduled to meet the Jumbos January 7.

There is a dearth of veteran material [illegible] the 13 candidates who reported [illegible] Manly [illegible]

Captain Stanley, Abrahams and Weisleder were the only letter men to report. "Potts" Kennedy and Gene Tobey have swapped the moleskins for gym suits, but they are lacking in previous experience.

Coach Manly's hopes lie in last year's freshman material which is promising and constitutes the bulk of the available candidates.

DR. SARPOLIS IN HARD TRAINING

Dr. Karl Sarpolis has been training out in the open for his finish match with Giovanni Vargarini, Italian flash, which takes place at the [illegible] Opera House Thursday night.

[illegible] is as hard as nails and believes he will have little trouble disposing of the fiery [illegible] While [illegible] the Italian shows a lot of wrestling, he is firm in his belief that he is much too strong and tough for the Italian representative.

Vargarini is training hard at the South End Gymnasium as he realizes that this is his chance to make good, as it is his first main event and should he be defeated it will be back to the bushes for him, while a win will mean a match possibly with Malcewicz or George McLeod.

A lot of interest is being shown in the second appearance here of Joe Bull Komar, the giant Lithuanian wrestler. He [illegible] Stan Stasiak for rough tactics on the mat, and he comes here with the avowed intentions of going through with Ned McGuire and Stasiak himself.

He meets Al Thomas and Abe Kaplan, one right after the other Thursday night.

[illegible] Ukrainian light heavy, will hook up with Charlie Pilates, Greek light heavy, while Jack [illegible] of Woburn will meet big Jake Shaffer in another bout.

CAPABLANCA, CHESS CHAMP MAY RESIGN TO ALEKHINE

Buenos Aires, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Alexander Alekhine, 35-year-old Russian, was virtually chess champion of the world today.

Jose R. Capablanca, the Cuban master who has held the title since 1921, announced after the 31st move in the 34th game with Alekhine that he would [illegible] resign when the game is resumed tonight.

In the present series the winning of six games is necessary to gain the championship. Alekhine has won five, Capablanca three, and 25 have been drawn.

"Cav" Says:

Majority of Men, Players and Grads Oppose Lateral Pass

By MAJOR FRANK W. CAVANAUGH

Head Football Coach at Fordham University and Former B. C. Coach.

At the close of the greatest football year in the history of the game, there is much discussion concerning the rules, especially those inserted in the Code by the Rules Committee before the start of the season.

The one which seems to have come under almost universal discredit is the new ruling on the lateral pass.

This rule was introduced by the late Maj. Moore, at that time Athletic Director at Harvard. The Cam[illegible] one of the Eastern teams [illegible] lateral pass a [illegible] Arnold Horween [illegible] the new [illegible]

[illegible] player to make a lateral pass with[illegible] running it anything like speed. That is the chief reason why the play was developed so slowly this year, even [illegible] accorded by the Rules Committee in an effort to encourage its use and further open up the game.

"In our game, the lateral pass is not instinctive as it has become in rugby. In the English game the players are brought up from boys with the one thought in mind, of passing the ball at the first opportunity, and in many cases [illegible] pass it accurately [illegible] running [illegible]

[illegible] cost. As a result [illegible]

THE lateral pass has added a cer[illegible]

[illegible] held on to the ball, even though the receiver was clear.

In another game, several times I saw players who were about to be thrown for losses, suddenly toss the ball to another man who would bring it back to the line of scrimmage before the would-be tacklers would recover [illegible]

[illegible] officials in view of the new rule, found it hard at times to distinguish between a fumble and an attempted lateral pass.

As it stands now, I believe the majority of football men, players and graduates, oppose the lateral pass.

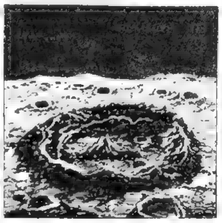
A NEW kind of electric cord, invented by a Hungarian, does away with the electric push-button. This cord can be squeezed or pinched at any point along its length, and it will make contact and ring the bell or operate the signal.

The Story of the Stars

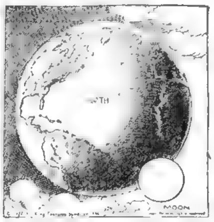
(The Mountains of the Moon)

By Garrett P. Serviss

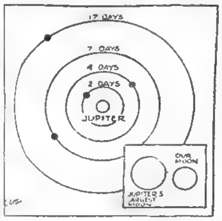
From the steep, rugged mountains and barren, airless plains of the Moon, as shown above, the Earth would appear in the sky as a giant Moon, fourteen times as large as [illegible] through monthly changes of shape as [illegible]



The most wonderful sights on the Moon are its enormous ring-shaped mountains, resembling volcanic craters. This one, named "Tycho," which is fifty-six miles across and more than three miles deep, can be seen plainly through a telescope.



The Earth's bulk is fifty, and its weight more than eighty times that of the Moon. It is about 3.7 times greater in diameter, 8,000 miles as compared to 2,160 miles. Gravity is six times stronger on the Earth than on the Moon.



Jupiter has four principal Moons, one about the same size as ours, three much larger. He has also five very small Moons. But Jupiter is so powerful that his Moons have to travel much faster than our Moon goes.

Sussex is the most thickly wooded country in Great Britain, about 12 per cent. of its area being planted with trees.

Cooking for Club and Church

By MARTHA LEE.

ONE of the most frequent requests that come to me is for [illegible] in quantities large enough [illegible] a church supper, a [illegible] gathering, so today I [illegible] give you a few recipes [illegible] on a large scale.

Oyster Stew for 5[illegible] [illegible] milk, one [illegible] oysters [illegible] cup salt, 1 tsp. [illegible] one pound butter.

Scald the milk [illegible] add the [illegible] paprika and oysters. Cook until the edges of the oysters begin to curl. Add the salt just before serving. If the soup must stand some time before all is used, the oysters should be combined with the milk only as needed. This allows one cup to a serving.

[illegible]

And here is the recipe for potato [illegible] Potato Salad for 150. Ten quarts [illegible]

[illegible] frankforts. [illegible]

[illegible] Beans for 75: Four quarts [illegible] spoons mustard, six tablespoons salt, one-quarter cup soda, one-half cup sugar, two teaspoons paprika, one [illegible] or scraps of ham.

Soak the beans twelve hours or more. [illegible] boil until [illegible] fat and three [illegible] until the beans are tender and well browned.

And whether it is a wedding or a club social, coffee is the backbone of the meal. Coffee in quantity should always be made in an urn and it is [illegible] to hire one inexpensively. Here is a recipe for [illegible] of coffee [illegible] serve forty-eight people, [illegible] cupful per person.

[illegible] for Forty-eight: Four cups coffee ground medium fine. [illegible] water. [illegible] the ground coffee into an urn [illegible] boiling water from the water urn flow over the coffee. Drain the coffee from the faucet of the urn and pour the entire amount over the ground coffee twice. This should make a coffee of good strength.

The important points in making coffee are that the urn should be kept perfectly clean, using [illegible] water and [illegible] baking soda [illegible] should be kept washed and well aired, the water [illegible] coffee should always be actively boiling before the coffee is made and the water [illegible] should be maintained at [illegible] temperature.

For Weddings—Chicken a la King is probably the most popular dish for a wedding breakfast or buffet supper. This recipe will serve one-half cup to 150 people.

Chicken a la King—Two cups of chicken fat, two gallons chicken stock, one-half gallon milk, seven and one-half quarts cooked chicken meat, [illegible] one quart green peppers, chopped, one and one-half quarts flour, one quarter [illegible] chopped, one-third to one-half cup salt, one [illegible] pimentos, [illegible] two pounds fresh mushrooms or three cans of canned mushrooms, six-teen egg yolks, one pound butter, 150 toast, one-half slices.

Heat the stock within the onion. Melt the chicken fat, add the flour, and when well mixed add to the boiling stock, stirring rapidly. Add the scalded milk, the green peppers, pimentos and cubed chicken. Saute the mushrooms in the butter and add. Beat the yolks and add them with the salt, last. Serve on toast in bread cases or patty shells.

Preparations Often Irritate Skin

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.

IF you are a housewife of that fortunate class who do much or all of their own housework you are very liable to have more or less trouble with your hands.

That is because civilized life, of which the real working housewife is the hardest exponent exposes the skin to constant irritation—each irritation being an assault upon the skin of the kind of "mother" and the "hired girl." This might be avoided if first the susceptibility of the individual, and, next the constituents of patent cleansers were considered more carefully.

Much skin inflammation is due to the use of soda and soda preparations, strong soaps and the chloride of lime used for bleaching clothes. But while many women who care for their hands realize the harm of soda and take precautions in using it very few stop to think [illegible] contain soda or [illegible] ingredient. It [illegible] soaps they would not be quick washers. Many a baby with a delicate skin has suffered for weeks from raw, red buttocks and [illegible] area before some one pointed [illegible] that she was [illegible] with too strong [illegible] for that particular [illegible]—although she would have been horrified at the idea of using [illegible]

Other household preparations dangerous to the skin of housewives are the dilute acids used for cleaning lavatory basins and pans, furniture polishes, leather preservatives and metal polishes, quick drying enamels and paints, rapid paint [illegible] storage batteries, disinfectants and insecticides. Any of these may be the cause of a mysterious skin disease in the house worker, due to the peculiar susceptibility of the worker rather than to the irritating substance itself.

Shake Up Health!

THE prime cause of restlessness at night is slow digestion of a heavy dinner.

There is in malt a precious element known as diastase. It is the greatest of all pre-digestives. It turns to liquid the slowly digesting starches in the stomach.

Shake up—and drink hot—Loft Chocolate Flavor Sweetened Malted Milk just before retiring and you'll sleep soundly. For the diastase in the malt will take care of digestion.

Make this single test. Get a tin of Loft Chocolate Flavor Sweetened Malted Milk at your grocer's. Then shake up health!—ten minutes before bedtime. Notice how much sounder you sleep and how much more refreshed you are in the morning.

CHAPTER 25

[illegible] swain. She felt confused and uncertain. Across the stateroom the older woman faced her, smiling, completely at ease.

And Georgie, trying to get things clear, sank down, breathing slowly, unable to say any of the thousand things that filled her mind.

But Mrs. Mountford did not seem to notice her diffidence. She offered Georgie a cigarette, and when Georgie merely shook her head she lit the one she had been holding and blew out the smoke [illegible].

"Ernest is late, isn't he?" she murmured lazily. "But then he's always late."

"You—you've come to see him off?" Georgie found her voice at last. Oh, rather a strange, dry voice [illegible] resented hers.

"Well—in a sense. He doesn't expect me, you see. It was just luck that I happened to find out."

"Oh, I see!" Georgie answered, but the frown in her forehead said still more clearly that she did not see. She didn't understand at all why Mrs. Mountford was here. What right had she to be here? What had Ernest to do with her anyway? Georgie felt jealous of Mrs. Mountford's worldliness, her [illegible] knowledge of taking lovely things to wear, and lovely things to do, just as matter of course.

"He didn't tell you when he'd get here?" Mrs. Mountford pursued.

"No."

"Ever been to Italy before?"

Georgie stiffened. "What do you mean?"

"Well, this boat is sailing for Italy, isn't it? Naturally I supposed you're going there."

"But I—I'm just seeing him off too."

Mrs. Mountford looked at the bag and laughed. But it was not a malicious laugh.

Georgie flushed deeply—so Mrs. Mountford knew all about the trip. Ernest must have told her! He must have told her everything! This—the most important adventure of her life—and Ernest had confided in this woman.

Her words seemed inadequate to express her feelings, when she said curtly:

"So he told you, did he?"

"Told me?" Mrs. Mountford opened her eyes widely. "Of course he did not tell me."

"Then how did you know?"

"My dear, it's as plain as an open book. For one thing I know Ernest. And even if I hadn't, your face would have told me everything the moment you opened this door and found me here. You looked absolutely guilty, besides there's your bag."

The Cold, Cynical Voice Rasped on Georgie's Nerves

Georgie bit her lip. "Have you known Ernest a long while? Are you an old friend of his?" she asked abruptly.

"I've known him quite a while. But I'm scarcely a friend."

"What do you mean?"

"[illegible] we cordially detest each other."

"But then why did you come to say good-by to him?" Georgie demanded.

"Business reasons. You see, I have certain claims on Ernest."

The cold, cynical voice rasped on Georgie's nerves. Suddenly she felt alone and frightened, unable to cope with [illegible] terrors that [illegible] existence. A wave of fear [illegible] she fought it [illegible].

But Mrs. Mountford's face had a [illegible] sad and [illegible] tones of her voice became kind.

"Take my advice and go home. Get off this boat, my dear. Go back to your friends."

Into Georgie's troubled head came the thought that this woman was [illegible] no doubt she wanted to marry Ernest herself, and she seemed terribly capable of getting her own way.

"You think I'm a fool, don't you?" she said. "Go home—and leave him to you! As if I didn't realize you wanted to get rid of me."

Mrs. Mountford gave a short, incredulous laugh. For a moment she did not answer, and in the silence through the opened port could be heard the harbor sounds and the [illegible] splash of water and the voices of passengers embarking and saying goodbye to friends.

Then at last Mrs. Mountford spoke again, very quietly now.

"Listen to me! I do think you're a fool—but you're a charming innocent little fool. I'm several years older than you are, and I happen to know what I'm talking about. Once—when I wasn't quite so old—I fell in love. The man was married. But I was in love—in love.

"He [illegible] place [illegible] I was supposed to go West, I [illegible] with him instead. Well, you see I've not forgotten, and you see, this is a story without a moral, because I wasn't found out. Don't think I'm telling you something everyone knows. But I haven't reached the end of the story. Here it is.

She Stared Before Her With Arms Folded, Smiling Cynically

"Three years later I married another man. I tried to love him but I couldn't. My marriage was a dismal failure—all around. Now I haven't anything—and every year that I grow older—well, you don't know what that means to a woman like me."

She was silent, only staring before her with hands folded, and an ironic smile curving her bright mouth.

"But what's that got to do with me?" Georgie asked.

"Everything. Do you want to do just what I've done?"

"You don't understand. Ernest and I are to be married."

"He told you that?" Mrs. Mountford looked at Georgie's flushed face, her excited, unhappy eyes. Then she shook her head. She put out her hand and touched the girl's sleeve. "Don't be a fool," she ended softly. "Go home, while there's time. He hasn't any intention of marrying you."

The gentleness had gone out of Mrs. Mountford's face. She looked tired and a little disdainful once more.

"I'm sure I don't know why I talk to you like this," she said. "Why should it matter to me what you do. I'm afraid I was getting a little sentimental. Do whatever you please. Only I hope you don't mind if I—if I have a little talk with your . . . future husband, before I leave myself."

"Naturally I can't put you out," said Georgie acidly.

But Mrs. Mountford acted as if she had not even heard. She had seated herself before the small mirror and was very carefully going over her make-up.

Georgie turned her head away and waited in silence. The minutes crawled with painful slowness. Where was Ernest? What had made him late? What would happen when he arrived? Georgie had the feeling that Mrs. Mountford could have answered that, if she had wished.

The Misses Beautiful and the Snow-Birds

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

THERE is Love-in-a-Mist, Love-in-Spring, Love-in-Despair, Love-in-[illegible], Love-in-a-Cottage, Love-in-a-Palace. And [illegible] Love-in-the-Snow.

Love is a butterfly in the Summer. But he doesn't die with the green leaves, or go to sleep through the Winter. He turns into a green bird. But unlike the bird who sang "pee-dee-dee" in the old peach tree and wouldn't let the little girl knit mittens for him, HE will flock gladly in through the first cosy door that is opened to him. And stay forever IF [illegible] expected [illegible] in a cage. An open cage-door is [illegible] He had rather live in the snow on the few crumbs he can pick up here and there.

Love's a tame little bird—but shy of the word possession. You can touch him with a finger—but a hand closed round him is too much. He will infest a balcony with a Lady Bountiful and food upon it. He will gladly come inside by the flame of your fire. IF THE FRENCH WINDOW IS NEVER LOCKED. And if with his bright eyes he sees it isn't, it is more than likely that he will ruffle his wings no more in the cold winds of the open sky!

The world is always whimpering about Love and the wounds they get of him. "Unstable! Nothing in him," they shout. But how poorly [illegible] the world of men and women handled Love! Not one in ten [illegible] will give him the thought, the patience, that they will a [illegible] careful thing. [illegible] will live on charity and a few crumbs. They expect such glory and such happiness to come to them from him as is in nothing else in all the world and yet they treat him shabbily. They call him the most wonderful thing in the world and use him as the most common.

Lady Bountiful gave more than a crumb to the Snow-Bird on your balcony. He will live on good comfort. But he will fill your house with the Song of Love, on [illegible].

'Sally's Shoulders'; Heroine Has a Talk With John Nye, Her Ideal

Beau had spent better than a hundred dollars for one thing and another the week before.

"Ten dollars," Ted answered. "It isn't very much, I know, but I need it. I didn't sell a single car last week. You know this is a bad time of year in the automobile business."

He went rambling on, full of explanations. But Sally wasn't listening to him.

Ten dollars, she was thinking. Ten dollars. Why, ten dollars wouldn't begin to account for the money that Beau had [illegible] last week. Forty-five dollars to Millie, more than that on clothes for himself, twenty or so for the guitar. She added up the items and her heart seemed to sink right down into her shoes as she did it . . . Where HAD Beau got that money?

The door of the flat opened, and he stood there. Neither she nor Ted had heard him come up the stairs and unlock the door.

But there he stood, his eternal cigaret pasted on his lower lip, his straw hat on the side of his head, his handsome young face flushed to a bright pink with the [illegible] in the sun. Under his arm he carried a pasteboard box of ice cream.

When he saw Ted he gave a start, look[illegible] seven ways for Sunday," as Sally later described it to herself, and then came jauntily into the room.

"Hello, old man!" he said, and went straight [illegible] to the kitchen. Before Ted had time to follow him he was back in the living room again.

"The folks are down stairs. They're coming right up," he said to Sally. "They're having a time getting Mother out of the car. Her foot's gone to sleep and I'd go back and give them a hand. But I thought I'd better [illegible] up that cream before it melts. It's for supper."

He vanished and Ted went down the back porch steps to his own home, refusing Sally's invitation to stay to supper.

There was a shuffling on the landing outside the door a minute afterwards, and Beau and Millie appeared leading Mrs. Jerome, who groaned as she moved. Behind her came Mabel Wilmot, carrying her [illegible] coat and a large pair of sun glasses.

"Get me into my own bed," Mrs. Jerome was wailing. "And I'll never leave it again until I'm carried out feet first. Oh, I'm paralyzed from the knees down. I know it."

"Don't be such a fool, Mother!" snapped Millie. "You know your feet are asleep and that's all that's wrong with them! You make me sick, acting like a baby! A woman old enough to be a grandmother."

She appealed to Sally, her blue eyes tragic, her voice full of fury and disgust. "Let me tell you what she did!" she wailed. "Sat up in the front seat beside Davy all day long, and talked an ear off him! She just ruined the whole day—the whole darn day!" She lapsed into her lazy drawl, but her eyes still snapped like blue sparks.

"Well, you be still!" Sally shook her head at her. "Aren't you ashamed of yourself, Millie Jerome! Talking about your mother like that! You just leave her alone. I'll take care of her."

She brushed the scatter-brained trio away from her as if they had been so many house flies, and led her mother into her own room, where her bed, her pillows and her electric fan were waiting for her.

The strain of the long ride had completely exhausted her. But after a glass of hot milk she could lie back on her pillows and talk.

"Did Mr. Davidson stay for supper?" she asked, and shook her head regretfully when Sally said that he had not stayed.

"I'm afraid he doesn't care two pins about little Millie," she said. She always instantly forgave Millie for her rudeness and went on calling her "little Millie" and petting her. "It was you he talked about all day. He told me you seemed like such a wholesome sensible girl and he was so disappointed this morning when he found you couldn't go with us. I'm afraid he planned this little outing just for you." She smiled romantically.

Out in the dining room Millie was crying softly to herself as she ate cold lamb and mint jelly. And when Sally tried to comfort her, she pushed her away and flounced off to bed, refusing to speak a single word.

It was not a happy Sunday evening in the Jeromes' little flat.

The first person Sally Jerome saw when she walked into the lobby of the Chauncey street office on Monday noon was John Nye himself.

Her breath caught at the sight of him. . . . She had forgotten just how good-looking he was, with his arrow straightness, his sunburned skin and the flash of his white teeth when he grinned.

"Well, here you are!" he said, and held out his hand. "Still working for my neighbor across the hall?"

Sally shyly answered that she was. It wasn't like her to be shy, but somehow or other it was hard for her to find her voice, and to meet the dark, brilliant eyes that smiled down into her blue ones.

"Still bringing him milk, too, I see," he went on, with a glance at the bottle she carried.

Then his face grew serious.

"You remember that day in the [illegible] when I asked you if you knew of anyone who wanted a job as secretary?" he asked.

Sally nodded dumbly.

"Well, it was you I wanted," he said deliberately. "You know that, don't you?"

She didn't, and at his words the flush that rose so easily to her face overspread it like a flood of rosy light.

"I couldn't work for you, Mr. Nye," she managed to say to him, "even if I didn't have a job. Because I work only half a day—and anyway, my sister's out of work and she expects to come to you. She's been waiting for you to get back home—"

"Oh, I know that. And I want her to work for me," he hurried to say in his honest, hearty way. "Only I want you to know that I'd rather have you than anyone else I ever saw."

"Take the third car to the left," said the elevator starter, coming up to them and they got in and soared up to the top of the building together.

It was [illegible] bird for a long time.

Tomorrow — Sally's poor little heart is sick for the love of John. Why doesn't she go get him?

TWO WOMEN FOUND HELP

Their Sickness Banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Nina Matteson, Box 208, Oxford, N. Y., writes—"If it had not been for your medicine, I could not have done my work as it should have been done. Mother told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had read in different papers what it had done for different women. She wanted me to try it, so my husband got me one bottle at first; then I took two others. * * * Now I am feeling quite strong again."

Mrs. Ernest Tanguay of Adams, Mass., says she was ill for four years and could not sleep nights or go out on the street. She read about the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking eight bottles she was able to do all her work and go anywhere and is quite herself again.

This dependable Vegetable Compound is a household word in thousands of homes. The fourth generation is now learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If this medicine has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you? At your druggist's.

Lesson No. 11
Question: How does emulsified cod-liver oil increase the efficiency of milk as a protection against rickets?
Answer: Milk is deficient in rickets-preventing vitamin. A little emulsified cod-liver oil added to or taken with milk makes it a more perfect vitamin-food. Give it as

Are you trying to hide behind a mask of cosmetics?
It can't be done! If your skin is red, rough or pimply, there is only one way to overcome the annoyance—get rid of the defects. You can do this easily by using Resinol Ointment daily until your skin is clear and smooth again. Apply lightly. Leave on skin about an hour (longer if possible), wash off with Resinol Soap. Pleasing results follow.

"My experience is that Lipton's Tea excels all other brands in rich flavor"
Says — Mrs. G. Barrett, Lynn, Mass.
And she continues—
"I have used several brands of tea, but the rich, mellow flavor of Lipton's made me discard all others. Its soothing, cheering and invigorating qualities and satisfying flavor are unequalled in the market."
YOU, too, will find that Lipton's Tea is the most delicious in FLAVOR. Here, in brief, is why—
The Lipton Tea Estates produce the Finest Tea in the World, and have been awarded First Prize and Gold Medal in Ceylon and India for its quality and merit.
Sir Thomas Lipton's Tea is blended by experts and packed by means of the most up-to-date methods in his own factories.
That's why Lipton's Orange Pekoe Tea is the best obtainable.
Yet for this finer Lipton flavor and quality you pay no more than for ordinary teas. Therefore, always ask for Lipton's.

Final Bid ...1 N.T.... Played by ...South...

Salient Points of the Bidding

South, though holding 100 Aces, bids but one No Trump to invite rather than discourage partnership co-operation. A bid of two No Trumps might shut out a good Heart or other suit bid by partner and the hand might work out to better advantage if played with partner's best suit as trump.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. West overtakes the Jack of Hearts to establish the suit

Tricks 4 and 5. Declarer must lose a trick in Diamonds in the establishment of the suit, and plans to lose it on the first round by playing the eight in Dummy on his own low lead. But West, coming up with the nine, forces Dummy's King. East, appreciating the situation, plays the Queen on Dummy's King to unblock. On the return of the suit, Declarer, thwarted by the co-operative defence of West and East, is compelled to come up with the Ace to shut out West.

Trick 8. Blocked in his attempt to establish Clubs, clearly evident from the fall of the cards, Declarer realizes that he cannot go game, and plays the hand to make two odd.

Tricks 12 and 13. East, thrown in the lead, must give Declarer a trick in Clubs.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

(From Okanogan, Wash., Independent)

"State Forecaster Joy reports an expense of $200 to put out the timber fire on Aeneas Mountain, caused when a farmer near Loomis, while cutting his first crop of wheat in three years, attempted to repair the harvester in the field. He could not loosen a nut, so he tried a blow torch, which set fire to the harvester. The team took fright and ran away, setting fire to the field of grain. The flames got out of control and rushed up the mountain."

LOVE is like the Solar System. Nobody ever knows all about it; and just as you think you have got it down to a science you make another startling discovery which upsets all your theories.

A man is never quite sure that he wants a lifelong lease on a woman's heart until he discovers that some other man has an option on it.

Almost any woman will voluntarily confess little sins to her hairdresser that she wouldn't even admit to the Lord, in her prayers.

No man falls in love, and few are lured into it; most of them are SHOVED into it by fate, boredom, loneliness, or "the woman before the last."

Sour Stomach
Sweetened instantly

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Tade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

ACCORDING to the bureau of vital statistics, there are over two thousand centenarians in the United States. This seems to be one thing that the reformers haven't passed a law against.

IT'S easy to live a hundred years. All you need is plenty of time.

MILLIONS of people would like to be centenarians if it didn't take so long.

OLD age requires patience. You can't reach longevity on a motorcycle.

ONE fellow tried to pass the milestone in a Ford.

HE was about to bloom into a century plant, but the undertaker nipped him in the bud.

HE was so old his children had to put lanterns on his birthday cake.

METHUSELAH lived to be 969, but there weren't any automobiles to interrupt him.

AND he never went to Chicago.

AT seventy-seven, Methuselah was still hanging on to his mother's skirts, and a baby could reach them in those days.

THERE'S a man in New York who's 119. He's trying to outlive the installments on his player piano.

NOT only that, but he's anxious to finish an argument with his wife.

THEY started it sixty-three years ago and he wants the last word.

HE says he'll live to be a hundred and fifty if it takes him the rest of his life.

HE'S put in some of his best years becoming a centenarian.

THE reason he's so successful is that he started when he was very young.

HE'S lived 119 years without missing a day.

HE even devoted his Saturdays and Sundays to it.

HE'S never smoked cigarettes, visited night clubs or gone out with women. He says he wants something to look forward to when he gets old.

MOTHER!
Cross, Feverish Child Needs this Harmless Laxative

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is ofttimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Worker Gives His Budget; What Wife Who Works Says

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—This column "started something" when it published the budget of a Seattle department store clerk receiving $27.50 a week and unable to maintain his wife and one child without going into debt every month. His request for suggestions has brought a deluge of letters from all classes, multimillionaires and also struggling day laborers, who declare they would be in paradise could they earn $1,430 a year.

B. C. Forbes

It is very evident that precious little prosperity is being experienced by many families, on farms as well as in cities.

Another point emphasized is that young men should strive to steer clear of lines of work which can be done equally well by women.

Also, some of the letter writers criticize the complaining clerk for getting a family before getting enough pay to support one.

* * *

F. L. Richardson, lawyer, of San Diego, Cal., writes:

"Perhaps if he had been as eager to get an income as he was to get a family, he would have succeeded better. However, this is probably beside the question.

"The reason that this man is not making better wages is because he is in a business that is probably as competitive, as far as women are concerned, as any business.

"Men that are brought in direct competition with women in business are at a great disadvantage, especially if they have families to support. Not many women in business have families to support. Most of them spend their money on themselves.

"However, the changes taking place in economic conditions will eventually force an increasing number of married women into business. In the Seattle man's case, this would be a solution of his problem."

A 26-year-old Seattle draftsman, who has a wife and two children and who receives, not $27.50 a week, but $108.84 a month, sends his budget compared with the other and showing how he makes ends meet. Thus:

b Clothing, children's requirements.

He adds:

"You will note that no allowance has been made for medical or dental attention, insurance or savings or amusements.

"I have made application for several night jobs but so far without success. Often I come to the office at a. m. and many times work through till midnight to make sure that my company's submission drawings are presented on time and in the best manner possible. I am not kicking for I am the happiest when I am buried in work.

"There is much money to be had but we must go and get it. It will not come to us. Though, broke, financially, at present, my mentality and ambitions are working overtime. My aim is mighty high—and, what is more, I am going to reach my goal."

Several urge the clerk to consume less and to reduce his expenses in other directions. One married woman writes:

"I am the wife in a similar family, although we have two children instead of one and we must contribute $35 a month toward the support of my parents. A teacher's salary is not sufficient.

"The solution of our problem was my return to the business world. My salary has made university tuition possible for my husband, and by going nights, Saturdays and Summers, my husband will soon have his degree. This means a position in High School, with an increase in salary sufficient to make ends meet. When he has his new rating, my office days are over.

"I feel that many a man needs just a little assistance to put him over the top. Perhaps if this other Seattle wife felt as I do she would find a way to help financially and thereby give her husband a chance to find himself.

Don't you agree that that sounds sensible?

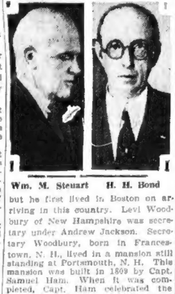
NEW ENGLAND'S U. S. TREASURY POST HOLDERS

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Elevation of Henry H. Bond, Boston lawyer, to the post of Assistant Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, has led to queries as to what New England men have held the Federal Treasury post. The list begins away back in the days when Washington was President. Oliver Wolcott, Jr., of Connecticut succeeded Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury. Samuel Dexter of Massachusetts came next.

* * *

Albert Gallatin, who succeeded Dexter, is listed from Pennsylvania, but he first lived in Boston on arriving in this country. Levi Woodbury of New Hampshire was secretary under Andrew Jackson. Secretary Woodbury, born in Francestown, N. H., lived in a mansion still standing at Portsmouth, N. H. This mansion was built in 1809 by Capt. Samuel Ham. When it was completed, Capt. Ham celebrated the event by giving the customary "housewarming" for his neighbors. After the guests of the elaborate reception had departed, Capt. Ham, for reasons unknown, committed suicide by hanging himself in one of the upper chambers.



Wm. M. Steuart H. H. Bond

William P. Fessenden of Maine was Secretary of the Treasury under Lincoln. George S. Boutwell of Massachusetts and Lot M. Morrill of Maine were secretaries under Grant. And that ends the goodly New England list to date.

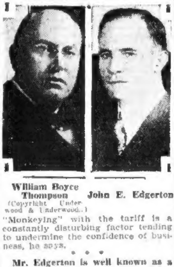
Is Congress incompetent? The question might be asked in connection with the suggestion of John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, that tariff revision for aid of farmers should be placed in hands of commission and not be left to Congress.



William Boyce Thompson John E. Edgerton
(Copyright Underwood & Underwood.)

"Monkeying" with the tariff is a constantly disturbing factor tending to undermine the confidence of business, he says.

* * *

Mr. Edgerton is well known as a speaker in Boston. He is serving his 8th term as president. Associated with him as vice presidents are Henry Trumbull of Plainville, Ct., Clifford S. Anderson of Worcester and George R. Wilson of Providence.

* * *

Discussing recently the resignation of Colonel William Boyce Thompson, millionaire "copper king," from the directorate of Texas Gulf Sulphur, we called attention to the philanthropical research work he is doing in connection with conservation of plant life. At least six million dollars is being spent by Col. Thompson in this work.

* * *

Dr. William Crocker, in charge of the Thompson laboratories, forecasts a population of 140,000,000 for the United States in 1950, which would require all the food we could raise on our lands as now farm-worked.

* * *

The Crocker forecast seems con-servative when compared with that just made by Director of Census William M. Steuart to Secretary Hoover. Director Steuart expects a population of 124,000,000 by 1930. Fertilizer trade leaders join with State agricultural experiment station instructors in telling me better methods of working farms will enable us to care for a vastly larger population. Besides the advantage thus to be gained, there are enormous areas in Canada and Mexico, as well as farther southward to supply a rising food demand.

The United Fruit Co., in view of the foregoing, might reasonably be considered to be merely in its infancy, capable of enormous expansion, if equipped with the quality of New England leadership it has had under past and present presidents.

Try to visualize the promised growth of our home market, the best, for our varied manufactured products.

NEGOTIATIONS are under way for acquisition by Seaboard National Bank, of New York, of New Netherlands Bank, also of New York City.

MOTHER KILLS BABY, TAKES IT TO COURT

smothered it with a pillow, and then came here."

Startled, the officer gazed at the woman in amazement, and then investigating the bundle in her arms, discovered the cold form of a five months old child.

The tiny form was rushed to the Quincy Hospital, where it was pronounced dead, while the mother, still unemotional and drooping languidly, was placed under arrest by Lieut. George W. Fallon on a charge of manslaughter.

MELANCHOLY 5 WEEKS.

Hardened police and courthouse attaches were amazed to the point of incoherence by the tragic happening, and the matter-of-fact manner in which the story was told by Mrs. Otterson.

Eventually faculties were recovered and a flurry of excitement occurred, during which the self-confessed slayer of her child sat listlessly in a detention room, apathetically answering the questions showered at her.

"The baby, Stanley was his name, was born five weeks ago in a Boston hospital," said Mrs. Otterson. "Ever since, I have been unable to sleep and have been melancholy. The last few days it has been growing worse and last night it seemed as though it could not be borne.

HER TRAGIC ACT.

"This morning my husband, Warren, who is a machinist employed by the Boston Elevated, left home at 7 o'clock to go to work.

"The baby had been crying fitfully by spells, but now it started a steady screaming which irritated me so I couldn't stand it any longer. So I smothered it with a pillow and them came here."

She had walked a mile and a half with the lifeless form in her arms, to deliver it to the authorities at the courthouse.

District Attorney Wilfred N. Wilbar was communicated with and instructed that Mrs. Otterson be arraigned on a charge of manslaughter. In the meantime Medical Examiner Fred Jones examined her and pronounced her a victim of melancholia.

HELD IN BAIL.

The arraignment was held up until Warren Otterson had arrived, and he was present in court, tight-lipped and stern-faced.

Mrs. Otterson drooped in a chair, her face ashen, her hands twitching, until called on to answer to the charge, when in a barely audible voice she pleaded not guilty. Bonds were fixed at $10,000 and the case was continued until Saturday.

Mrs. Otterson was then taken to the Dedham jail, where, under order of the court, she will receive medical teratment.

According to the police, the couple have been married three years and Stanley was their first child.

GIBBONS BOY, 5, ACCUSED 'MAMA'

Silva, indicted with Mrs. Gibbons for the murder of Theodore R. Gibbons, is now in a hospital for the insane.

It was only indirectly that the prosecutor flung these alleged words of the boy to the jury and, unless otherwise substantiated, they may prove of little weight in the prescution.

Statet Detective Francis Clemmey was telling of a visit paid by Manuel Frazier, brother of the defendant, to her cell in New Bedford jail after her arrest last May.

"HE'S ONLY A KID."

"Manuel told her if she and Tony were guilty, they ought to go to the chair," testified Clemmey.

"Mrs. Gibbons then denied meeting her husband on April 22, but asked if she met him April 23, the day he disappeared, she said nothing. Then Manuel said, Well, little Herman said that Tony hit papa and mamma put him in the well.'

"'He's only a kid,' was Gertrude Gibbons' reply."

Letters in which Gibbons begged his wife to let him see his boy and threatened her with a suit in court —even threatened to charge she was stealing th child—wre next introduced by District Attorney William C. Crossley.

THREATENED TROUBLE.

"I want to see you before I make trouble for you. If you let me see the baby once a week I will leave you alone and not bother you," he read from one of the letters.

Gibbons disappeared on Saturday, April 23. A letter dated six days earlier was read, and in it Gibbons told his wife he would give her until Sunday. If he did not hear from her by that time, he would have her brought into "high court" for "stealing my child."

Detective Clemmey testified also about long questioning of the defendant after her arrest, and he declared she admitted lying about certain parts of her story. He told how she was taken to the undertaker's to view her husband's body, and under cross-examination he admitted she was not told her husband was dead, but was told she was being "brought to see him."

MRS. GIBBONS WARNED.

"She told her brother, Manuel. Manuel, she did not know why she was arrested unless it was because she had been out with Tony," he testified. "She said her husband had been out with other women and had a girl in Brockton. She also said her husband rode in her auto with Tony and her and 'it was all right with him.'

"Manuel said to her, 'I told you to keep away from that other fellow, I told you they would get you if it took 50 years. Now look at where you are."

LETTERS TELL OF NEED FOR GOODFELLOWS

votion and love of family. Surely a Goodfellow will be found to help this little lad to make his sisters' and brothers' Christmas a happy one.

Here's a nicely written note from a little South Boston miss of ten, whose mother is dead, and who lived with her grandmother until the latter died. A pair of rubbers, some underwear and a warm dress are all that she dreams of. Who's going to stop at that?

A boy from Roxbury writes that bread and tea are the everyday food of himself, his three sisters and brothers and a sick mother. The father is out of work. Their Thanksgiving meal was bread and tea. "We are all sick of it," he writes.

WRITES FOR SISTERS.

A youngster of 12 writes a letter full of concern for his two sisters of ten and seven one of whom is sick. The girls are certain that there will be no Chirstmas for them, but Jack has told them of the Goodfellow Club and is keeping up their hopes. "Yours forever," he signs himself.

In neat, careful script, another 12-year-old boy asks that his little sister Catherine, eight, be remembered at Christmas. His father is suffering from a broken back. You'd like to do something out of the ordinary for that boy, Goodfellow. He asks nothing for himself.

"A good drum, a chew-chew train, a crazy car and a box of candy," are requested for himself and his five sisters and brothers by a little Roxbury lad who signs himself, "Your loving friend, N. B."

Now read the following excerpt from a very carefully written letter from a seven-year-old little girl:

"What a sad Thanksgiving my family of seven had. My Daddy and Mama and five children had one lb. frankforts and potatoes and bread, and, Oh! Mr. Goodfellow, how my daddy and Mama did cry, they felt so bad. My Daddy is only working two days aweek because there is no work down where he is employed, and dear Mr Goodfellow, Mama says our Christmas is going to be just the same as Thanksgiving. . . . . Right now I have boy's shoes on my feet . . . "

Who could fail to be touched by the yearning of this litle girl, who, in all her seven years, has never had a doll carriage. "Just think," she says.

FOOD IS WANTED.

Little Georgianna tells the Goodfellow Editor that he may send anything he wants. "But we most want food, because, as I told you, my father is not working."

A much harassed mother is worried about the Christmas which her three children will face. Her husband, a veteran, is in the hospital. She is in arrears with her rent, and she hopes that God will send a Goodfellow to her home for the sake of her children.

"When I get to work, I'll help someone else," says Katherine K., appealing for a little help in making the Christmas of her three brothers and one sister a happy one.

And so it goes. Letter after letter, telling in simple language of pathetic struggles to maintain respectability, health and family unity. Scarcely an extravagant demand, scarcely a sign of selfishness.

HURRY AND JOIN.

But however modest the individual requests, the total is looming large and alarming. Goodfellows must hurry and join the ranks or there will be much left undone.

The need for workers is growing more urgent with every hour that passes. Won't you make up your mind right now to join the Goodfellow Club?

The plan of the Goodfellow Club, in brief, is to enable you to be your own Santa Claus. Write to the Goodfellow Editor and tell him that you would like to provide for a little family on Christmas. Indicate, if you wish, the section of the city, of the neighborhood where you would like to make your offering. Out of many letters of appeal received and investigated, one will be selected which you can follow up.

You will be able to study the worthiness of the appeal. You will be able to decide the sort of gift that will be most suitable, whether in the form of food or clothing or toys. There will be no intermediary between you and the little family whose Christmas you will brighten.

If you hesitate about undertaking the direct delivery of your gifts, the members of the Boston Evening American staff will gladly undertake this work for you. They are giving their time without stint to this work. If you wish to have them make your purchases, they will do that, following your instructions to the letter, making the most careful purchases, with scrupulous care that every last cent of yours goes direct to the family you have chosen to help.

It is urgent, though, that you act at once, before the hustle and bustle of Christmas shopping and last minute duties have driven today's resolution from your mind.

Write today to the Goodfellow Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop square, Boston. Tell him what sized family you can provide for, and he will forward you one of the many pathetic letters which he has in his hands.

Please write today. Tomorrow you may be too busy.

POPE GREETS FR. SPELLMAN

Rome, Nov. 29 (A.P.)—Pope Pius today received in audience Monsignor Spellman and his brother, Dr. Henry L. Spellman, of Boston, who had hurried to Rome in order to be at the bedside of Cardinal Bonzano before he died.

The pontiff thanked the doctor for his ministrations to the Cardinal, who died Saturday, and for the zeal he showed in coming such a long distance. The pontiff also inquired as to news of the Boston diocese from Monsignor Spellman.

TODAY

the exactions, taxing and vices of the Rajahs, and diminishing by millions the number of deaths from plague and famine, Britain has caused India's population to rise from 200,000,000 to 300,000,000. That's a serious responsibility.

Alfred Tucker, bricklayer, out of work, and his wife, both past sixty, were found dead yesterday with the gas turned on. Near the man's body was a bank book marked, "Account closed." Potter's Field and the grave are never closed, so the old couple turned in that direction.

Old age is the night of life. "Work, for the night is coming when man's work is done," says the old hymn. For those that have not saved, age is a dreary night.

Russia has warned Poland to let Lithuania alone. Germany is supposed to have framed the warning for Russia. Germany would like to get back her territory that Versailles gave to Poland.

Lithuania's army swears to die rather than see Lithuania lose her freedom. Poland assures Britain that she will not interfere with Lithuania.

Russia will attend a Geneva parley, which recalls the scene in Job. "When the sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan came also among them."

Russia will demand immediate reduction of land and sea forces. But Lithuanian news, and news from farther South, would indicate bigger armies in Europe, rather than disarmament.

At last comes the new Ford car, and information signed, "Henry Ford." It will be shown next Friday, with four wheel brakes, fancy colors, if you want them. And Mr. Ford, knowing that this generation demands speed, has given it sixty-five miles an hour.

This car, like the other Ford, will make huge fortunes for Ford and create, as the first Ford did, a greater demand for bigger, costlier cars. Also, as Mr Ford has said, his new car will not interfere with the business or prosperity of any concern that makes good automobiles.

In Australia yesterday workers, unemployed, tried to force their way into the treasury building. The rioting was suppressed.

Australia is severe in its immigration limitations, and rioting there by the unemployed reminds American workers that what a country NEEDS is population.

When America had fewer than four million population, you could hire a first-class workman for $75 a year, and only one skilled mechanic in the whole country, a New England carpenter, was able to earn one dollar a day all the year round.

Now we have 115,000,000 people and you pay carpenters more than one dollar a day.

If we had 50,000,000 more of the right European population they would eat our farmers' surplus, double the number of automobile mechanics, and double prosperity. And we have room and food for twice fifty million more.

A psychiatrist from Chicago, credited with having saved Leopold and Loeb from the gallows, is here to see what he can do to save Mrs. Ruth Snyder, who helped kill her husband.

No psychiatrist should be necessary to convince the people of New York that it would be a disgrace to drag a screaming, defenceless woman to the electric chair, strap her down and kill her, in the name of civilization. Such brutality should be impossible in a civilized country.

COOLIDGE WILL GREET G. O. P.

Washington, Nov. 29 (A.P.).—President Coolidge will receive the Republican National Committee during its meeting here to select a convention city next week and will make an informal address.

This announcement was not coupled with any indication as to whether his talk would have a political significance, or throw new light on Mr. Coolidge's own political future.

It was said he had absolutely no choice for a convention city.

William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee, has arrived.

DEMOCRATS TO LET G. O. P. RUN SENATE

Washington, Nov. 29 (I.N.S.).—Although holding a paper majority of only a single vote in the new Senate, the Republicans appeared certain today of organizing the Seventieth Congress when it convenes next Monday.

The Republicans will be aided in gaining nominal control by Democratic leaders who do not wish to assume responsibility for legislation in a hostile Congress on the eve of a presidential election. The Democrats prefer to have the Republicans remain in titular control, inasmuch as neither party will be able to enact legislation without assistance from the other.

NAVY PRISON TO FREE 118

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 29 (A.P.).—The largest number of prisoners to be released from the United States Naval Pirson here under one order since the Worl War will be given their freedom during the month of December.

On the recommendation of Colonel Robert C. Underwood, commander of the prison, the Secretary of the Navy and the naval clemency board at Washington have approved a clemency list of 118 men. Their sentences range from six months to fifteen years.

Expiration sentences of thirty other prisoners during December will result in a reduction of the prisoner population to about 250 men.

"WHO'S WHO" In the Commercial, Business and Professional Life of Boston

FREE THEATRE TICKETS
METROPOLITAN THEATRE
This Week
"GET YOUR MAN" and "STEPPIN' HIGH"

FOR the 25 best letters received from Evening American readers stating why you prefer trading with the concerns whose advertisements appear in the "Who's Who" columns, will give a pair of tickets to the

METROPOLITAN THEATRE

Three of the winning letters will be published below each week and each of the 25 winners will be notified by mail.

Letters should not exceed 100 words, and should be addressed to the Classified Advertising Manager, Boston Evening American.

Dear Editor:—

What a delicious lunch one can enjoy at Bob Berger's, at 256 Tremont St., Boston. After enjoying a delightful show next door at the Metropolitan Theatre, it is a pleasure to have a cozy little place such as Bob Berger's. I always enjoy my waffles, which are incomparable in Boston.

The rest of the food is excellent and the refined and cultured atmosphere impresses one so that they never want to dine elsewhere.

Sincerely yours,
Anna L. Lennon,
191 Boylston St., Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Gentlemen:—

I am very glad to have this opportunity to acclaim the remarkable workmanship of Klaff and Mack, of 8 Winter St., the well known furriers.

A few weeks ago, I left my fur coat there. It was worn and shabby, the lining was almost beyond repair. When I called for my coat I was agreeably surprised. My coat was unrecognizable, so transformed was it. It had somehow acquired new lustre, new life and what a lovely lining.

But the greatest surprise was the amount I paid for those repairs. I would gladly have paid twice the amount asked.

I certainly recommend Klaff and Mack to anybody who desires good workmanship and reasonable prices.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sadie Goulston,
20 Wales St., Dorchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:—

When I noted Summerfield's ad among the "Who's Who" advertisers I felt that I had an opportunity to say something about a friend for that is what I have always found Summerfield's to be.

They carry a large and varied line of all types and kinds of furniture to fit all purses and they offer every courtesy in showing the same. This means so much to the experienced and amateur buyer. In fact I started housekeeping eleven years ago with a visit to Summerfield's and I continue to be a patron of their honesty and efficiency.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Gertrude R. Clarke,
171 West Newton St., Boston, Mass.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Underpaid

The Men of the Customs Service

Seventy-six employes of the United States Government in Boston, guards in the Customs Service, have petitioned their employer for a readjustment of wages. A sub-committee of the Way and Means Committee is looking into the matter.

Mentally, morally and physically these men are at least the equals of police officers, anywhere.

Daily they are brought into contact with drunks, thieves and bootleggers. They search, seize and arrest criminals, prevent smuggling, protect Federal property, assist in the prosecution of Government cases in the courts.

Their salary is $1,700 a year--for all except six officers—or less than $33 a week.

They receive NO overtime compensation, work every day in the year, including holidays and Saturday afternoons, and annually are compelled to furnish two new uniforms, at $45 each.

Bear in mind that the Customs man is appointed after a competitive Civil Service examination and must pass a strict medical examination; then compare his salary with the $2,000 paid to a police officer—$2,190 in Cambridge—or the $2,190 of an Elevated Railway guard.

Outside of the Prohibition Bureau there probably is no branch of Government service where opportunities for venal conduct are greater than in the customs service, yet there has been little or no graft. The men are rightfully jealous of their reputation for professional honesty.

The work of these public servants is performed in the face of constant danger. It seems to this newspaper that they are shockingly underpaid.

“Comical,” You Ma

But There Is Power in Cost

A BRITISH JUDGE GOING TO BREAKFAST

Once a year His British Majesty's judges, you see one of them here, go to a religious service in Westminster Abbey and then to a mid-day breakfast with the Lord Chancellor in the House of Lords.

The Lord Chancellor is Britain's greatest judge, and all the other judges breakfast with him as solemnly as so many owls on a roost. The particular judge in this picture, one of many that went to the breakfast, is Lord Justice Greer, known among judges as the Lord of Appeals.

His long white wig is of horsehair, his robe of black and gold, scarlet and ermine. And if you think he does not take HIS job seriously you don't know much about a British judge on his way to breakfast.

The judge's clerk walks before him, holding a silk hat, which is HIS badge of respectability, while a servant, as proud as any of them, carries the tail of the judge's robe. And so they go.

Proud and haughty Americans may smile at this, although we have some amusing titles and decorations in lodges and other societies of one kind and another.

Read thoughtfully Carlyle's book, "Sartor Resartus," about clothes and their meaning.

Costume and its grandeur influences all. The great Ghengis Khan, ruler of the Moguls, riding over the Gobi desert, was much impressed when told about marvelous costumes worn by the Chinese Emperor and his courtiers, "even slaves wearing as many as seven vests." When he heard of all that he decided to conquer China, and DID.

A king's crown, a general's epaulets, the bearskin hat of an old-fashioned soldier, all these deeply impress the human mind. Many a British servant girl has given her heart to a man in a red coat, earning a few shillings a week, that wouldn't have given it to him had he worn working clothes and earned ten times as much.

Our fashionable hotels put preposterous clothing on their servants, silk stockings and braided coats on the elevator men.

Our foolish rich are happy when they have servants with powdered hair, red plush knee breeches, etc.

Our own judges of the Supreme Court, and lower judges also, wear silk robes, although they don't have anybody holding up their robe tails when they go to breakfast.

We are largely what clothing makes us. Man, as Carlyle says, is only "a featherless biped" in his natural state. Clothes make him what he is.

The King of Belgium was once foolish enough to appear in a workman's overalls. He didn't look like anything at all.

SORROW BRINGS A REAL EDUCATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE real education of life seems to be getting acquainted with sorrow.

There are people who deny the existence of evil and turn their backs upon sorrow, but the cult of recognizing only the pleasant things of life is hardly practical.

Every once in awhile you hear of a suicide and for the most trivial of reasons.

One girl commits suicide who is eighteen years of age and it is because her parents will not let her go to a party.

If she had gone there she would not have found it much of a muchness and probably would have forgotten all about it in a few days. The matter was really trivial yet it loomed so terrible before her that it made life seem not worth living.

The trouble was she was not acquainted with grief and did not know how to act when she was confronted with a small sorrow.

A great many of our suicides are young people. Youth is tragic. Things mean a lot to young people and one thing we learn as old age advances is that nothing much matters. I have often noticed that young poets tend to deal with tragic themes.

Eternity and absolutivity are familiar to the mind of youth, but to old age things seem more temporary.

Life is long and the days are long and events are fateful with young people, but as we grow older things seem to move faster.

It behooves us to learn something of the temper of sorrow.

Sorrow is bound to come to us, sooner or later, and it is a good thing to get some practice in dealing with it.

Thomas Carlyle says that at the heart of every religious experience is a great sorrow, and certain it is that we all learn more from our tears than we do from our laughter.

Of all men it can be said, "with his stripes we are healed," and looking back over our past we can see that the really instructive things that have come to us have been our mistakes.

Get acquainted therefore with grief. Do not shun her, but look upon her as a great teacher that equips us for life.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

NEW friends are kindly, good and true and full of friendly ways; they know a host of things to do to brighten all the days. They lend their merriment and light, gay wings for flying hours, until the world grows fair and bright as gardens filled with flowers. For every hour of mirth and fun they come with merry smiles, as welcome as the morning sun, new friends with gracious wiles. And for each madcap, mirthful mood I greet the carefree train; but when the shadows come to brood I seek old friends again. Old friends, whose faces bring again life's bygone splendors near, with memories sweet as April rain, as April twilights dear. I love the new friends' happy ways for skies serene and blue; but I must have, for sunless days a staunch old friend or two.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MR. FORD'S getting out a new machine. That's big news.

Here's bigger. It has cost Mr. Ford $240,000,000 to shut down his factories, scrap old machinery and install new, preparatory to building that new machine. TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY MILLIONS—COUNT 'EM.

But there's a still bigger story than that. Mr. Ford is now sixty-four years old. He has spent twenty-four years in building up his automobile business, starting at an age when most of us are beginning to stop. He is worth an incredible amount of money. Yet, after digging himself into all that power and security and ease, he is able to dig himself out again and start something new.

Consider what he has done—and how much more than $240,000,000 this experience has cost him.

He has turned the pitiless spotlight of criticism on his own achievement.

He has junked his most valuable patterns, proven methods and cherished ideas. Those ideas went deeper than the making of a machine. They were part of his feeling about all human experience, about color and beauty and pleasure, luxury and freedom. Mr. Ford's tin Lizzie wasn't merely a machine. It was Mr. Ford's theory of life.

He has changed that theory and adopted an entirely new attitude and program. He's making something low and swift and vivid and comfortable—as different from his original model as a humming bird is from a mud hen.

Think what readjustment that implies; not only in Mr. Ford's factory but in Mr. Ford's head!

Consider how difficult it is for us to change even one of our pet opinions. How hard it is for us to apologize and say that we have been wrong—how excited and indignant we get if someone tells us we're on the wrong track.

Yes, we certainly love our pet ideas—

That's why we grow old so quickly and unpleasantly.

When we stop manufacturing new tissues in our bodies and new thoughts in our heads we begin to die. MOST OF US ARE 75 PER CENT. DEAD BY THE TIME WE'RE THIRTY-FIVE. We're as set in our molds, and just about as useful to humanity, as mummies.

PERHAPS YOU NEED A NEW PATTERN
ELSIE ROBINSON
11-29

Not so Mr. Ford. At sixty-four he's turning young again, adopting a new attitude, setting new standards for himself.

That's the way to live greatly. Junk yourself every few years—adopt new patterns—set new standards.

How many of us have the courage to do it?

YOUTH AND AGE IN STAR GAZING

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest.

> "I am 75 years old, but when a boy I was told, as we are today, that the two end stars in the bowl of the Great Dipper pointed to the North Star. Then the two stars seemed to point direct to the pole, but now there is quite a variation. Has there really been a change?—W. E. B.

THE two stars (Alpha, the one nearest the pole, and Beta, the one farthest) are moving in space in almost opposite directions—Alpha westward and Beta eastward. But these are "proper motions," taking place so slowly from our point of view that it will require 50,000 years for them to be displaced as much as a degree or two from their present positions. No change would be noticeable to the eye in a lifetime. So your supposition is in error, the line of direction drawn through the "Pointers" being, except to careful astronomical measurement, the same today that it was in your youth.

But age wins in judgment over youth, for your present observation is correct, while the former one was wrong. Youth is uncritical, takes things in the lump, disregards slight variations and imperfections, and notices only the main outlines.

Being told that these two stars pointed to the Pole Star, your imagination at once took fire and blinded your eyes to the deviation. It was not the deviation but the pointing that held your attention. It lent a personal interest to those stars, and instinctively you wanted them to point straight, just as one always assumes any hero to be perfect.

But now age has come, with its critical eyes and its many lessons of deception, and wonders how youth could have been so hasty and so inattentive to details.

Once you could almost see a celestial sentinel standing there pointing with starry fingers to the pole of the heavens; now you perceive only two stars, without a shred of imagination left about them, rather oddly placed, so that a line drawn through them indicates roughly the direction of another star that is quite near the pole. Science has corrected and replaced fancy.
